
All Story TranscriptsStory Transcripts

7-1-2011

Transcript of An Octopus in My Dory

Don Grotjohn

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.linfield.edu/dory_transcripts_all

Part of the Cultural History Commons, Oral History Commons, Speech and Rhetorical Studies Commons, and the Theatre and Performance Studies Commons

Recommended Citation

Grotjohn, Don, "Transcript of An Octopus in My Dory" (2011). All Story Transcripts. Transcript. Submission 24.

https://digitalcommons.linfield.edu/dory_transcripts_all/24

This Transcript is protected by copyright and/or related rights. It is brought to you for free via open access, courtesy of DigitalCommons@Linfield, with permission from the rights-holder(s). Your use of this Transcript must comply with the Terms of Use for material posted in DigitalCommons@Linfield, or with other stated terms (such as a Creative Commons license) indicated in the record and/or on the work itself. For more information, or if you have questions about permitted uses, please contact digitalcommons@linfield.edu.

Title: An Octopus in My Dory

Storyteller: Don Grotjohn

Interviewer: Stephanie Raso

Interview Date: 2011-07-01

Collection: Launching through the Surf: The Dory Fleet of Pacific City

Repository: DigitalCommons@Linfield

Transcribers: Whitney Weber, Andrea Snyder, Mary Beth Jones

DON GROTJOHN: Ah, Don Grotjohn, Pacific City, Oregon. The history of my being down here began in about '68.

I would, say probably [Pause] octopus is the oddest thing I've caught. You don't like to—you know you snag 'em, and what you don't want to do is bring 'em in the boat, because every one of those suckers will grab something. And try to get an octopus out of your boat—they don't wanna go. [Laughs]

Made the mistake of gaffing it, and I dropped it in my fish box, [Laughter] 'cause I was gonna take it in and try to eat it, see what it was like. Well, when I got home, the inside of the fish box is fiberglass coated so it's smooth. And it took about six of us to get that octopus out of that thing. It was just awful. The other thing that's funny is we have drain holes in the sides of our boat for the fish box, there's drain holes you can put fresh water in, it keeps the fish cool. But you look over the side of the boat when an octopus is in there and here's his arm going around down there trying to figure out—he'll put his arm, tentacle, through the fish hol—you know through the fish, drain, and it just looks kinda funny, you look over there and here's this thing feeling around. But they're not dangerous.