ATHLETES WORK HARD THIS FINE WEATHER

NINE TO MEET P. C. FIRST

Tennis and Track Flourish —Baseball Saturday

With the advent of spring weather, great activity is being shown in all branches of spring athletics. The tennis courts are alive with girls and fellows playing tennis—maybe "love sets"—while out on the diamond the crack of the bat sounds sweet to the "fan"-atical ear. The track men are out, too, running and jumping about like "spring" lambs. There is something doing, something for every student in the college. No excuses from athletics will be accepted this term,—no red-blooded man will offer one. Let now the man appear who "ran it in ten flat" at high school, "who struck out fifteen men," who "won the interscholastic singles," etc., etc. Now is the time to do or forever hold your peace.

The baseball squad was first to start practice and, as a result, the men and the diamond are in good condition to meet P. C. here next Saturday afternoon. Several new men are trying out for the team this year, among them Adams behind the bat, and Black, at short, who are doing especially well. About the same schedule as governed the basketball season will be followed out in baseball. The probable line-up for Saturday's game will be Captain Larsell, Breuning, Black, and McKnight in the infield, Brace, Bean, Larson, and Arter in the outer gardens, Adams, catcher, and "Skow" Stewart or Pettit in the box. By the way, Maurice is showing some class as a slab artist. Manager Breuning is justified in predicting a successful season for "Old Mac" in baseball. Let's all be out at the game Saturday and make it a third victory over P. C. in six weeks.

The track men started earnest practice this week and, from a first glance, the track outlook may be said to be quite promising. Manager Richards is arranging for a dual meet with either P. U. or Chemawa on May Day, which gives an incentive to consistent training from now on. Pettit has been chosen coach and should fill the position well. "Doc" Manley also promises to aid in the coaching. Every man in the college who believes that he has

Y. W. C. A. CONFERENCE HELD

Cabinet Members Get Ideas and Inspiration

Friday evening seventeen of us left for Monmouth, joyful and enthusiastic, to attend the annual Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Conference. We went expecting to have a good time, a wonderful meeting, and to come back filled with inspiration for our year's work, and we were not disappointed.

Our train was late, of course, and we did not hear very much of the first address. The second part of the evening was given over to four minute reports from the associations represented. Miss Enid Bell brought additional honors to "Old McMinnville" by the splendid way in which she presided over this meeting as the Annual Student Representative of the Field Committee for our district. This is an important office which has been newly created by the National Board. The reports from the different associations were intensely interesting. The latter part of the evening was given over to an informal reception, where we made new friends rapidly.

Early Saturday morning, after a short devotional exercise we separated for the committee group conferences. Here each of us received new ideas, and encouragement for our work, which will be the basis of many plans for the next year. From these group discussions, we returned to listen to a wonderful talk by Miss Butler. Miss Butler is from New York, a member of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. She will preside at the Cohassatt Beach Conference in June. We have learned to love and honor her and are eager to renew and strengthen our friendship with her at Cohassatt this summer.

At 12:30 we gathered in the dormitory dining-room for the banquet. After a delicious luncheon we listened to the clever toasts from different associations on "Past Time," "Future Time," "On Time," etc., each centering around the summer conference. Mrs. Gerlinger, of Dallas, made a charming toast-mistress. Miss Enid Bell, gave an excellent toast on "Past Time."

After the banquet we spent some time in going through the normal buildings, dormitory, new gymnasium, etc. Then we returned to the assembly room, where the afternoon program opened with a short musicale. We had four short addresses given by Dr. Latourette, who drew some splendid lessons for us from the life of

DR. HINSON WITH US AGAIN

Delivers Address at Chapel Service, March 21

Dr. W. B. Hinson of the White Temple, Portland, made another of his regular visits to McMinnville on March 31st. The students were glad to have him with us again after his recovery from recent illness. Dr. Hinson made the Sermon on the Mount his theme and delivered a powerful address. His thoughts touched the lives of those present and gave every one new and stronger impulses to live the Christian life.

After stating that it is wise to be very careful in the use of superlatives, the speaker said that he did not hesitate to pronounce the "Sermon on the Mount" the greatest sermon ever preached in this world. He said that there is no weak place in this sermon. Some sermons have had great beginnings and remarkable conclusions, but they always have had a weak place somewhere.

"The sermon in its beginning is most wonderful. There is no deference, no apology. The conclusion is of equal merit and of the same high grade.

"He is an amazing creature. He deals with the sparrow and with Solomon, the king of Palestine. He speaks of the lily and of the Great God. He touches your soul and mine. He speaks of all these things and moves as a master of them all.

"The Sermon on the Mount finds me. Every word spoken means me. Jesus Christ relates me to myself. When I want to know what I am, I go and listen to the Sermon on the Mount.

"He relates me to my brother. You only look out for the interests of 'number one' when you look out for number two. He relates me to the world. You are in the world as a piece of salt or a light—the salt to preserve, the light to illuminate.

"Christ relates me to Hell, the opposite of the Sermon on the Mount. He relates me to Heaven which is to be the crystalization in myself of the Sermon on the Mount. He relates me to a God that attracts me."

Freshmen Win

The Freshman team was victorious in the last game of the inter-class basketball series played in the Pavilion a few days ago. As a result of this game the members of the Freshman team—Arter, Hanford, Homan, Simonson, Stewart, and Wilson will receive numerals.

COLLEGE FACULTIES MEET AT REED COLLEGE

SIX McMINNVILLE MEN THERE

Enjoy Hospitality of Reed Students and Faculty

Several members of the faculty attended the annual conference of presidents and faculties of the privately supported institutions of the state, which was held at Reed College, March 27th. Those going down in the forenoon were Professors Northup, Gardner, Payne, Wallace, and Boughton. These visited the morning chapel exercises as soon as they had been escorted to the college. Dr. Riley was to have spoken at this time but he was unable to go until afternoon.

The day was spent with pleasure and profit in the various classes. Most of the students did not seem disturbed by the presence of strangers.

At 4 P. M., the Presidents and Faculty representatives assembled and were called to order by Pres. Crooks of Albany, who made a most efficient presiding officer. Welcome was extended by the Reverend Thomas Lamb Eliot, President of the Board of Trustees of Reed College. Papers and addresses were given by President Pennington of Pacific College, Professor Eleanor Rowland of Reed College, and Dr. Riley. Upon recommendation of Dr. Riley, a movement was begun looking toward a uniform Calendar for the different institutions.

At 6 o'clock all delegates were invited to dine at the college commons as guests of the college. If you have wondered why Professor Payne has appeared so puffed up ever since, just ask him to show you his place card on which by some accident, was written "President Payne." Coffee was served at the home of President and Mrs. Foster where an informal reception was held until time for the presentation of the plays in the Social Room by the students of Reed College.

The delegates fully enjoyed the plays as presented by Lady Gregory and Mr. Shaw. First came "The Man of Destiny," the scene being in an old Inn at Travazzano, Italy. Then came the humorous play, "Spreading the News." After a short time for refreshments the last play was given, a Christmas miracle play, "The Travelling Man."

At the chapel service on Saturday President Crooks spoke and President

May Queen Elected

In accordance with the annual custom, at a meeting of the student body on Tuesday evening, April 7th, Miss Ethel Carolin was elected May Queen. Nominations had been made in A. S. B. on Monday. The four nominees and the results of Tuesday's balloting were as follows: Ethel Carolin, 57; Mamie Holmes, 56; Ruth Mead, 11; Evalyn Ballard, 38.

Miss Carolin is a popular member of the student body and is now in her second year in the institution. Miss Carolin is well-liked by all who know her and her queenly qualities make her well worthy of the honor that has been bestowed upon her. Miss Carolin is a member of the Lambda Lambda Sigma Sorority.

At a meeting of the student body a few weeks ago it was voted to hold the Annual May Day Festival on Friday, May 1st. Plans for the coronation ceremony and the various festivities will now go forward rapidly. Various intercollegiate athletic contests will fill the afternoon and the coronation of Queen Ethel I will take place in the forenoon.

President Pennington Here

President Levi Pennington of Pacific College was in McMinnville Sunday, March 29th, and delivered the evening sermon at the First Baptist Church. The message brought by this able and powerful speaker was appreciated by everyone present.

To the students, President Pennington's visit was a pleasant surprise and we especially enjoyed the sermon. We feel as tho Dr. Pennington is an old friend of ours since his visit to the college and his talk in chapel a few weeks ago. Men of his fibre are not common and we shall gladly welcome him when he comes again.

Valedictorian Selected

The faculty has examined the grades of the members of the Senior class and valedictory honors have been awarded to Miss Mabel F. Lewis.

At the student body meeting Monday, Professor Boughton announced that Miss Lewis had won this honor. The grades were very close. George Stewart was a close second having an average grade only a fraction of one per cent lower than that of Miss Lewis.

Mr. Stewart was elected by the faculty as the second orator to take part in the Senior exercises at commencement time. A third will be elected by the members of the Senior class.

Miss Lewis has certainly earned the honor she has won and both Miss Lewis and Mr. Stewart have done a great deal of work in college in addition to the regular work.

No News

We regret that it is sometimes necessary in the course of the college year to run news matter of such a sensational type as what follows. The startling and surprising, however, is a part of our life and should be recorded without fear or favor. In this way only can the outsider get a true idea of things as they are really taking place. The press should tell the truth.

The introduction which precedes is "local color." It is used to do away with eye strain and nerve shock in case the reader goes on to read the thrilling, shocking and newsy information which follows.

An Awful thing happened in McMinnville during the last two weeks. The news will come to many friends and alumni as a great and painful surprise. So extraordinary in its significance, so unparalleled in our history, so unprecedented in the news annals of this college year, the statement we are about to make will bring sadness to friends, relief and gladness to our nearest and dearest foes.

But to proceed! "The truth will out"—even in some newspaper write-ups. The fact is this. McMinnville has won no championships, no victory whatever, for two full weeks, either in oratory, debate, or intercollegiate athletics. No basketball game has been won by a close score. Our swift forwards have not brought home a single scalp. Our orators have brought home no medals for two long weeks. No trophies adorn the camp of our baseball warriors.

We hasten to add that this extraordinary condition of affairs is due to one cause and one only. McMinnville has not participated in any kind of an intercollegiate contest during the last two weeks.

In our next issue, we expect to publish news matter of a less sensational type.

Personal Notes

The Y. W. C. A. Conference at Monmouth claimed a number of our girls. Most of the new Cabinet members and a few others made our delegation of sixteen the largest representation. Those attending were Edna Scott, Alice Webster, Enid Bell, Melissa Vaile, Ethel Wilson, Eloise Kennedy, Ethel Carolin, Carrie McKee, Emma Larson, Margaret Mann, Laura Wilkens, Nellie Carter, Florence Zerba, Rose Maxwell, Neola Carlson and Mabel Lewis. Margaret McCoskey made a delightful hostess at one of the "faculty houses," a plan made possible owing to the series of Grand Opera in Portland.

Several from Old Mac were fortunate enough to be able to attend Grand Opera in Portland recently. Those who had this opportunity were Mother Potter, Miss weeney, Ray Culver, George Stewart, Mamie Holmes, Emily Green, Howard McKnight, Walter Culver, Jay Galvin, Marjorie Hermiston, and Dale Coshow.

Art Larsell, Maurice Pettit, and Paul Breuning went on a fishing trip last week. They report many fish, little sleep, but a very good time with all kinds of experiences.

Adelphic Oratorical Contest

Monday evening, April 6th, occurred the Eighth Annual Oratorical Contest of the Adelphic Fraternity. It took place in the college chapel at eight o'clock. Prof. Wallace presided.

Harry Stewart was the first orator and spoke on "The Traitor to the State." Alvin Tipton was the second speaker and his subject was "Universal Peace." Mr. R. B. Culver was the third and last speaker, with an oration on "The War Makers."

While the decisions of the judges were being collected, Mr. J. Allan Jeffery entertained the audience with many and various "bum" jokes. The judges were unanimous in awarding first place to Mr. Culver. The judges were Earl Nott, Gilbert Tilbury, Prof. Frerichs, Wilfred Pentney, and John Mason. Judging was on two points, subject matter and delivery. All of the orations were concerning some phase of international peace.

The Adelphic Fraternity presented the winner with a beautiful gold medal, the Adelphic emblem being engraved upon it. The medal was attached to a watch fob in order that it might be serviceable as well as ornamental.

Alpha Gamma Nu's Banquet

On the evening of March 27th, we were escorted by a young man to the annual banquet of the new fraternity, Alpha Gamma Nu. The place of meeting was the splendid new High School building. After greeting the other guests we looked through the recitation rooms, and soon were summoned to the banquet hall. This was decorated with dogwood blossoms and Japanese quince. A dainty repast was served in a most charming manner by young ladies of the Domestic Science department of the High School. Music was furnished by Mr. Fred Coops on the Victrola. After this toasts were given by Messrs. Hanford, Evans, and Bishop, and "Mother" Potter. The speakers were gracefully introduced by the Toastmaster, Prof. E. B. Van Osdel. Then we were invited upstairs to an assembly room where the program of the evening was given. Mr. Harold Adams sang in his usual pleasing way. A lively and instructive debate on the subject, "Does a turkey accumulate more energy in eating a grasshopper than he loses in chasing one?" was enjoyed by all. Magic lantern pictures were next in order. These were scenes from our own college and elsewhere. Prof. Van Osdel then impersonated Alton B. Packard to the delight of all present. At a late hour we departed, each declaring the Alpha Gamma Nus royal entertainers.

On Saturday evening, March 28th, Mrs. Charles Williams entertained the Lamda Sigma Sorority, of which she is a charter member, at her home on North E street.

The greater part of the evening was spent in playing games in which Miss Ethel Wilson was winner.

We were reminded that spring had come not only by the cherry blossoms with which the house was decorated, but by the necessity of having new spring hats, as Easter was fast approaching. Mrs. Williams gave each girl a needle, thread, and a sheet each of white and Yale blue tissue paper, the sorority colors, of which she was to make an Easter bonnet. After five minutes of industrious labor, the hats were finished. These were worn during the delicious two-course luncheon which followed and then home

Delta Psi Delta Notes

One of the more enjoyable "stag" meetings of the year was held at the home of Dr. Manley last Friday evening. The occasion was the formal presentation of the rites and ritual of Delta Psi Delta to Dr. Manley, the latest member of the fraternity.

After this imposing ceremony the evening was devoted to various games and "stunts" that were by no means formal but thoroly enjoyed by every man present.

Only driven by the urgings of "Old Father Time" (or was it the effect of the man-made fudge?) the members, after expressing real gratitude to their host, serenading in sundry and divers places and "remarking" about the state of the weather, finally sought the waiting couch, there to enjoy that sweet repose that is only broken by a shameless alarm clock, and to indulge in merry dreamland recollections of scenes once known and pondered still.

The Kappas had an enjoyable social and business evening with one of their married members, Mrs. Gilbert Tilbury, in her cozy new bungalow.

After the program all repaired to the dining-room where delicious refreshments were served. The place cards were unique the names of the girls being put in notes on a staff, the missing letters being supplied in each note. Miss Loda Davis was a visitor.

Popular Confidence in Colleges

So much has been said recently regarding the worth of a college education in business and the industries that some facts brought out in a recent census of the Freshman class at Princeton will be interesting to notice. The statistics which were compiled show that over fifty-five per cent of the first-year men who matriculated this year are the sons of men who were not college-trained. The father of one of them is in President Wilson's cabinet while another's is a policeman. Ten are engineers, nineteen are brokers, and eleven are insurance men. Various other professions and callings are included in the list.

As the expense of a college course at Princeton is no small amount, the census would seem to show that in their desire to do nothing but the best for them, these fathers, no matter what their vocation, are willing to invest heavily, and perhaps sacrifice, to give their sons an equipment better than that with which they themselves started a business life. And it is difficult to believe that they, as business men, would have done this if their experience in life had not shown them the better chance a college education gives a young man.

Why, then, is there anyone who sneers at a college education? It is probably because there are so many students nowadays, who, on reaching the campus, forget the labor and often the self-denial, back at home which has sent them to college, and neglect the various opportunities of their college years, and finally graduate with only a lot of expensive habits and no developed aptitude, if any, for the work of life. But those who sneer overlook the far greater number of students who enter college determined to do business while there and so to prepare for the business of life.

It is reasonable to believe that in most of the smaller colleges, the percentage of students not sons of college-trained men is greater than at Princeton. But is there a corresponding increase in the number of the neglected-opportunity, expensive-habits' class? Here at McMinnville, we not only believe that there is not such an increase but that there is a considerable decrease in that class.

At any rate, the bare fact that more than half of the Princeton freshmen are the sons of men who never attended college is a proof of the popular confidence in the results of higher education. And it is the stronger proof because it is born of actual experience in business and the professions.

The Wind Blows

The March number of one of our exchanges gladly devotes space for the following free advertising. The adverb "gladly" does not apply to the first clippings.

"It will be noted that Mr. Hubbard was easily first in that and composition, and leads in the average of percentages. His oration was on 'The Flood Tide.' Mr. Bolt stood high in delivery. His subject was National Vitality. Mr. Stewart, of McMinnville, although receiving but one second and no firsts, averaged high enough to give him first place. His oration was entitled International Peace and the Public Press.—Page 7.

CAN YOU BEAT IT?

One of our exchanges comes out with a column and a half editorial, the gist of which is that all the colleges in existence are weak, deficient, declining in strength and power of their graduates—all colleges "except one." According to this article, this "one" college has a student body only five per cent of whom are there without some definite purpose, while in nearly all others, only five percent are there with that purpose; this "one" college is the only one where "the side-shows of college life are minimized to their proper place," and has a faculty capable and willing to study the needs and problems of the students, which attention "may be lacking in the average institution." (Note the term "average" as opposed to this "one.")

Doubtless this "one" college has reason to be proud of their student body, of their faculty and alumni. Its record in athletics, debate, oratory, etc. is commendable. But the same thing can be said of scores of other institutions, with no "maybe" about it. This "one" college is not so infinitely better than others around that it is justified in placing itself on a pedestal and crowning itself "Lord of all." There is a limit to all things, even egotism.—Pages 8 and 9.

With seven men of last year's ball team back again there is every reason to believe that we can square ourselves with McMinnville again with a vengeance. George and Vestal are new men who are making a creditable showing so far the former at pitcher and the latter at catcher. Dale Butt has been elected captain. Judging from the spirit shown in practise every man on the squad would die happy after we have beat Mac April 11. If we don't win another game the whole season We Want Mac! Second to material only is support. We have both, why not?—Page 10.

Kenneth S. Latourette, Professor in Yale College, Changsha, Hunan Province, China, spoke at chapel Tuesday, March 24, upon the "Challenge of China to the Christian Church." He spent two days with us in the interest of foreign mission work. We are glad to have such men as Dr. Latourette with us, because he knows how to meet the students on their own ground, and helps them with their own peculiar problems. We hope he may visit us again.—Page 20.

(Dr. Latourette is an alumnus of McMinnville College.—Ed.)

R. W. L. in illustrating his feelings during the last half of that Mac game told the following story: A minister's wife wondering at her husband's marvellous success in expressing sorrow in his sermons, searched his manuscripts. She found the clue. At a certain effective place were the words "Cry a little"—as the thot increased in feeling were "Cry some more." Where the climax was reached she found "Cry like thunder."—Page 22.

The Review, McMinnville, Oregon: "Local Color" may be harmless if labeled such, as the small school boy labels the picture he draws "a horse," but to outsiders who do not recognize the exaggeration, it may give an entirely wrong impression of events recklessly reported.—Page 23.

(We notice a few things in this issue which do not refer to us.—Ed.)

Newberg for the state contest last year.

Peace Oratorical Contest

The Chapel was the scene of a spirited contest in oratory last night. Much interest was manifest and several men cried out for the mastery. The men and their subjects were: R. B. Culver, "The War Makers;" Chas. Stewart, "Does Might Make Right;" M. C. Smithson, "Unseen Empire of Finance;" Alvin Tipton, "Universal Peace;" Harry Stewart, "The Traitor to the State." This contest was held to choose a representative for the college in the State Peace Oratorical Contest to be held in Portland on April 24. With as much interest manifest as there was last night, there is little doubt that McMinnville has an able representative to go to Portland. It speaks well for McMinnville college when she can have so many men try out in each of three contests in a single year. Right here can be found one reason why McMinnville turns out so many winning orators, viz: That in

His Letter to Harrison

My Dear Son Harrison:

Enclosed is a check for twenty dollars. I hope this will pay your board and room bill up to date. I should like to send you more but I believe it is going to be better for you to rustle your own "pleasure cash" as we boys used to call it. I am glad you accept this discipline in the good spirit you do, Harrison. It makes me proud of you and I believe you will see more fully the value of it in later life. I remember some of my college chums who used to think the "Governor," as they called him, ought to send them plenty of money for midnight feeds, cigarettes and sporty clothing and even proud to do it. I am glad there are few of that sort in McMinnville.

I just received a statement of your grades for last term. They speak very well for your work, Harrison. If you will attain an average of 95 per cent in your studies this term I will take you and Snaggs with me on an outing trip to Mt. Tacoma.

Tell Professor Wallace I met one of his old sweethearts yesterday. He had so many when he was in college with me that it will keep him guessing to find out which one it was I met.

I wonder if Professor Northup remembers a time some years ago when one of the college girls was bringing up some hot coffee from the kitchen to one of the girls in the dormitory on the top floor. I chanced to meet her in the hallway by Prof. Northup's classroom. We began talking and laughing quite loudly when out stepped Professor. Without an instant's hesitation she stepped up to him and said, "Oh, Professor, won't you have some of my coffee?" That saved the day. Professor could not remain angry before such an invitation.

Just one more word, Harrison. There is a store in Tacoma with this painted on the window, "Your credit is good here." My dear boy, keep your credit good. Have the reputation of paying your board bill, room rent, laundry bill and all the other obligations promptly. Do not borrow, not even ten cents, a book, or writing paper. Get the habit of foresight in providing yourself with these things. I should be proud to have you on that winning basketball team or to see you win some of those oratorical contests, but I shall be much more proud of you at the end of the term to know that you have met all your obligations promptly and that your credit is good everywhere.

Snaggs is very lonesome without you. Mother, Vera and I send our love, and wish you all success this term.

Your loving

Making Poor Eyesight Good

You may have excellent vision, and be able to read the smallest type without glasses, but if you have difficulty in discerning objects which your friends see clearly—you certainly need glasses to clear that distant vision.

But there's no single method of testing—not one single instrument—that will give us an infallible diagnosis of your trouble and that is why we study and test each case individually upon its merits.

Your satisfaction depends upon our skill and with the glasses we recommend.

State Prohi Tomorrow Night

The annual state prohibition oratorical contest will be held at Pacific College, Newberg, tomorrow evening at eight o'clock. Most of the colleges and universities of the state are to be represented. Pacific College is planning for an entertaining program and promises all who attend a pleasant time.

Mr. Andrew J. Klebe, who won the local tryout over four other contestants, will represent McMinnville College in the state contest. His subject is "A Call to Arms." Mr. Klebe has a pleasing personality and is at home before an audience. We expect him to win.

S. W. Graihwell, of Pacific University, who won second place in the Northwest Interstate Prohibition contest last year, will enter the state contest again this year.

Mr. Lisle Hubbard, of Pacific College, who won second place in the "old line" contest this year will enter the Prohibition contest with the same oration.

These and other strong orators promise that the contest will be an exciting one and whoever wins will not do so easily. It is expected that a large delegation will attend from here. Fifty went from McMinnville to addition to a good coach there is an enthusiastic spirit behind every orator that goes out. The students of the college realize that this is an opportunity for practical use of their power to think. Every orator who goes out must win out over a good aggregation which insures a strong man. Let us all make Mr. Klebe feel that we are behind him and so help him to win at Newberg and then boost for the Peace Conference.

(As this goes to the press the result of the tryout is not announced.)

Keep to the Right

Keep to the right, as the law directs,
For such is the rule of the road;
Keep to the right, whoever expects
Securely to carry life's load.

Keep to the right, within and without,
With stranger and kindred and friend;

Keep to the right, nor harbor a doubt
That all will be well in the end.

Keep to the right, whatever you do,
Nor claim but your own in the way;
Keep to the right and cleave to the true,

From morning till close of the day.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

"Out of the same mouth cometh forth blessing and cursing. My brethren these things ought not so to be." James 3:10. This verse our president chose for his topic in our last meeting. The meeting was a very helpful one; the topic was enlarged upon and many good things brought out.

Mr. Klebe developed the idea of what a deplorable fact it is, so many who have named the name of Christ at times seem to forget and indulge in stories that have a double meaning. We as Christians ought not to listen to these stories to say nothing of repeating them. He also put himself on record as not only refusing to tell any more of these stories but not to listen to them either. This will be an example for many more to follow.

One spoke of how the friendship between himself and another was broken for a time because of certain ones not controlling their tongues and doing the much despised talking trick.

The idea was brought forth of the reason why so many fail in trying to live up to these ideals. We have formed habits we were years in forming and we will have to take years in overcoming them. We cannot reach perfection in a single bound, and because we cannot do this, we quit trying. This is a mistake, we pledge ourselves to never tell another shady story, but the habit is there and we fail, but we should never give up. Keep trying.

"Heaven is not reached in a single bound,

But we build the ladder by which we rise,

From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,

And we mount to its summit round by round."

Let us as students and as Christian students try to help each other in this worthy effort. Let us control our tongues.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

In an institution where music holds so important a place in the lives of the girls as it does here, the Y. W. C. A. girls appreciate a meeting entirely devoted to singing the hymns which they like best. Such a meeting was held March 25, the first day of the new term, and all the girls together enjoyed the song service. "Nearer my God to Thee," "I Need Thee Every Hour," "Abide with Me" were among the many songs that were sung.

Of all the various kinds of meetings that the Y. W. C. A. girls hold, one of the most impressive is "Installation Day." April 1 the new cabinet which has the following officers: Edna Scott, president; Alta Davis, vice-president; Beth Elwell, secretary; Alice Webster, treasurer; Enid Bell, chairman of the Religious Meetings committee; Eloise Kennedy, Intercollegiate committee; Ethel Carolin, Social committee; Melissa Vaile, Bible Study committee; Ethel Wilson, Missionary committee; Emma Larson, Music committee; Carrie McKee Social Service committee; and Margaret Mann, Chairman of the Employment Bureau;—began the work of another year. Miss Grover gave a talk showing what each girl was undertaking to do, and the whole Association could not but feel that the work was a serious responsibility which gave back as much joy as the girls were willing to give service.

Riley offered prayer. The rest of the morning was given to papers and discussions led by President Foster of Reed College, President Homan of Willamette University, Miss Cornelia Marvin, Secretary of the State Library Commission, and Professor Frank Griffin of Reed College. The business session had to be postponed till afternoon. It was decided to meet next year at Pacific University at Forest Grove.

At eleven o'clock the delegates were invited to hear Secretary W. C. Redfield, of the United States Department of Commerce, in the Reed College chapel.

Mr. Redfield is a most pleasing and forceful speaker and held the close attention of all his hearers. He spoke of the great good that a small college can do and showed how conditions have changed in our national life. The wise citizen is one who lives to serve. The address came as a fitting climax to a most delightful conference.

Ignorant Butcher

Mrs. Putton-Ayres had picked up a few French phrases which she worked into her talk on every possible occasion. Entering the butcher's shop one day, she inquired if he had any "bon vivant."

"Boned what, ma'am?" asked the butcher, puzzled.

"Bon vivant," she repeated. "That's the French for good liver, you know."

Intercollegiate

The first college to publish a college paper was Dartmouth. There appeared in 1800 at that institution a paper called the Gazette, which is chiefly famous for the reason that Daniel Webster was one of the editors.

In another large university hazing is suffering its last throes. Stanford has suspended a handful of sophomores who entertained members of the freshman class at a lake party.

Some Harvard men have discovered a way to bring about a more economical living at the college; they have initiated the custom of wearing black silk shirts and ties. The laundrymen, of course, call this unjust coercion.

At the University of Pennsylvania, two hundred men have volunteered to enter social service work.

Of the 368 men at the University of Oregon, 208 or 56 per cent, are members of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Joseph Swain, president of Swarthmore college, has refused an offer of $2,000,000 because it provided that further participation in intercollegiate athletics be abandoned.

The Dramatic Interpretation class of U. of O. will play "The Professor's Love Story," in Oregon cities during the spring vacation. The trip will take ten days.

More college songs, and better college singing, seems to be the slogan of colleges in all sections of the country. Smith College is planning a song contest which is to be held between the four classes at commencement time next June. Columbia University, in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the School of Mines, is holding a competition for the best commemorative poem and song. In doing this both institutions are acting on the belief that good songs and good singing make for a more loyal student body.

13. Robert Kyle, son of Prof. Kyle who taught English in the U. or R. last year, is attending McMinnville College at present. Prof. Kyle in years past was one of the most appreciated teachers at McMinnville. His renewal of work there came to them as a pleasant surprise.—The Spectrum, University of Redland, California

At the University of Vermont, improved admission standards have brought favorable results in one year's trial. A fifty per cent reduction in the number of conditions and exclusions from examination because of exceptionally low grades was made in the freshman class. Twenty-four per cent of the class were conditioned as compared with twenty-eight per cent last year. It seems also to do the Middlebury students good to be required to take five studies, for the percentage of failures this year is half that of last year when four subjects were required.

In an effort to raise the standard of quality in the news and editorial columns of the Reed College Quest, the board has obtained several of the most prominent newspaper men in the city to talk to them on phases of newspaper work. The board hopes to get one representative from each of the four papers in Portland.

Coach White of the University of Chicago, has been trying out a new game known as water basketball to see if it is a good substitute for water polo.

The problem of the needy college man is being partially solved at the University of Texas in a rather novel way. The profits of a moving picture show, owned and operated by the student body, are used to help worthy men in meeting college expenses.

The Best You Have

Give love, and love to your life will flow,
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.
For life is the mirror of king and slave,
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

In a Hurry

A somewhat choleric gentleman, while waiting for his train, entered a barber's shop to be shaved. Jonah; Mrs. Gerlinger, whose subject was concerning work which Y. W. girls may do; Miss Parrot, of the Normal school who spoke on the Art of Conversation; and Miss Butler, who told us of the work of the National Board, the finances, the field districts, and secretaries, etc. We gained a breadth of vision of the Y. W. C. A. and its constituency such as we had never had before.

Saturday evening the installation of the Monmouth Y. W. cabinet took place. The second part of the evening, Pres. Ackerman of the Normal School spoke on "Co-operation," one of the key-notes of success.

Sunday morning, Mr. Pollard preached a sermon for the association "Ye are a peculiar people." Sunday afternoon occurred the closing service of the conference. Miss Butler gave another talk on the Sermon on the Mount. Her emphasis on some parts of it will give us food for thought for days to come.

In a short after meeting each delegate was given a chance to tell some of her impressions of the Conference.

It was a worth-while gathering; strong and powerful in its influence. We are determined more than ever to make Cohassatt our goal. Our spiritual life was deepened, and our enthusiasm for the next year's work unlimited, because of the things we learned at our Cabinet Conference.
