Inside Linfield Magazine

Linfield students have a tradition of being busy, which is evident in Marvin Henberg's snapshot of student life, the final in our sesquicentennial series. Students are still involved and engaged, as shown through several student features in this issue. In one we follow a student during a marathon 12-hour day. Another tells about the combined work of students and community members in Guatemala. View some stunning photos shot by a student during a kiln firing in the Coast Range near Willamina. We say farewell to three extraordinary professors and share some of the wisdom of Professor Emeritus Win Dolan, who at 99 years young, addressed the class of 2008. Even as we look to the end of our sesquicentennial celebration, we anticipate the rich and vibrant future that lies ahead for Linfield College.
