NINE COLLEGES FORM NEWS ASSOCIATION

ORGANIZATION INTENDED TO PROMOTE INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS AND BUSINESS EFFICIENCY

Managers and Editors Enthusiastic Over Prospects

The meeting of Pacific Coast Intercollegiate newspaper men held in Eugene, November 11-12 resulted in the organizing of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press Association. The association, formed as a result of the two days' conferences of more than a score of college newspapermen representing nine Pacific coast institutions, from California to British Columbia, is intended to promote intercollegiate news and business efficiency.

Wendell Brackett of the school of Journalism, University of Washington, who was instrumental in bringing about the conference, was chosen general news editor of the association, to have active charge of the intercollegiate news service.

Several other officers were elected. Harry Smith, editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald, was chosen vice-president; L. G. Blockman, editor of the Daily Californian, Secretary; A. A. Webster of the British Columbia Ubysey, treasurer; and George R. Yancey, editor of the Whitman Pioneer, member-at-large of the executive committee. The executive committee will consist of the four officers and a member-at-large, and will have extensive powers.

Raymond Vester, manager of the Oregon Emerald and a former student in McMinnville, was elected director

ALPHA GAMMA NU ROYALLY ENTERTAINS LADY FRIENDS

Home of Professor VanOsdel Scene of Merriment

The members of the Alpha Gamma Nu fraternity and their lady friends assembled at the new home of Professor VanOsdel for one of the best all around good times ever experienced in Mac.

After a few beautiful selections were played on the phonograph, little Miss Harriet VanOsdel supplied the girls present with dainty, diamond-shaped purses which proved very useful during the remainder of the evening. Pennies were concealed in all corners and crevices of three rooms, and after quite a scramble the pockets of the boys were jingling with the coppers, while the girls boasted over their fat purses.

Soon the secret of the "get-rich-quick" scheme was discovered when the guests were led into the basement which gave the appearance of a ver-

Basketball Men Turn Out!

P. C., P. U., Philomath, and Albany are out to win the basketball championship. Is Mac going to let them win it? It will require the united efforts of all the loyal Macboosters to bring victory and championship to McMinnville. Last year we had a championship team, but this year Coach Gildea has only one of the old squad back around which to build his team. The task is then—to build a winning team out of new material. It can be done for it has been done.

MEN—Get those old togs out and get into shape. The inter-class series will be completed December 2, and from then on it is a fight for the new togs now on display at Jameson Hardware Co.

Y.M.C.A. DEPUTATION TEAM TRAVELS TO NEWBERG

Y. Men Help Newberg Boys to Organize High Y. Club

Friday, November 12, the Y. M. C. A. deputation team went to Newberg with the county Y secretary to interest the high school boys in forming a High Y Club. A meeting was held in the high school gymnasium for the boys. The team presented five traits essential to manhood, namely, character, courage, honesty, strength, and purity.

After the meeting the deputation team joined the high boys in a lively game of basket ball.

Sunday, November 14, the deputation team returned to Newberg and held a meeting in the afternoon for men and boys. The characteristics of Paul were discussed.

Sunday evening they held a union meeting in the Baptist church. The high school boys were specially invited to this meeting. The team had charge of the meeting and presented Christ as a leader, a citizen, a philosopher, a friend, and as a Savior. The meeting was well attended and the trip as a whole was very successful.

NEW COLLEGE SONG PRACTICED IN BIG CHAPEL SING

The usual Friday chapel "sing" was held on Thursday of last week. A new college song was presented to the student body and some time was spent in practicing it. Both the words and music of this song were written by Mr. John Haug, a member of the Freshman class. "Mother" Potter urged others to submit songs suitable for use at various college functions.

The Misses Mary and Myrtle Ballard appeared at their best in a violin duet. The rest of the period was spent in singing some of the songs in the new College song book.

It was a most enjoyable and profitable carnival. The vendors in the various booths shouted their wares, and pennies were ruthlessly squandered. Everyone took a chance at ringing the ducks, balling the nigger babies, shooting, and winning a prize.

PROF. VANOSDEL IN CHAPEL ON FUNCTION OF FACULTY

Student Body Hears Able Discussion on Interesting Subject

On November 16 Professor VanOsdel explained to the students what he believed to be the "Function of the Faculty," and under three heads discussed the things the faculty ought to try to do. His talk was brief but to the point.

Professor VanOsdel pointed out the difference between the high school, college, and the university; the difference in the type and kind of instructors and instruction; and the difference in the methods of instructing. "The college is the middle ground between the high school and the university and the best opportunity for thorough classroom work is afforded in the college.

Each faculty member has individual responsibility to the institution and to each student and should get his average idea of the student not in the classroom alone, but in the social realm as well.

Faculty relation to the administration of the institution should be progressive in all measures. What shall be required and what shall be elective in the curriculum is a big question? There are four classes of students who come to college, and their opinion of the curriculum depends upon what class they belong to. All questions cannot be settled satisfactorily to everyone but the faculty should be willing to lend themselves to the fullest and most complete development of each student."

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS SOON TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Reed College Chosen as Meeting Place of 1920 Conference

Dr. George Fry Clark, president of Pacific University and head of the state college association of independent colleges of Oregon, recently announced that the conference would be held at Reed November 26 and 27. Papers on questions of administrative importance and welfare will be read by various representatives and will be followed by general discussion.

DR. WEST DELIVERS SPLENDID LECTURE

PROMINENT SECRETARY OF THE BOARD OF PROMOTION OF BAPTIST DENOMINATION VISITS COLLEGE

Life Analyzed and Essential Standards Considered

On Friday the Associated Students were addressed by Dr. West of the Board of Promotion of the Baptist denomination. Dr. West's message ranks as one of the very strongest and most vital that has been delivered from the chapel platform.

The theme of his address was, "What is your life?" The most significant thing about your life, the students were told, is that you are going to live. The question arises, what gives substance to your life? Dr. West pointed out that there were some principles by which life can be determined. First, is life to you a matter of excitement? Some people are in continuous search for something thrilling. To this class of people there must be a new excitement at every turn of the corner or life soon grows stale. A person cannot live on the nervous system without destroying personality.

The second principle for determining life is to consider it an adventure. Life should be looked upon as a great endeavor. One ought to keep a final objective before him and ought to seek for the height of attainment.

Dr. West next presented what he considered the standards of a worthy life. Our life should be estimated in terms of time, and 27,375 days are de-

DELTA PSI DELTA GIVES SIXTEENTH ANNUAL BANQUET

Guests Enjoy Mountain Peak Experience of Social Life

The Delta Psi Delta Fraternity were hosts to a number of their friends Saturday evening at their sixteenth annual banquet given in the dining room of the Elberton Hotel. The occasion was one of good cheer and friendship, and was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the year.

As the refrains of the Delta Psi Delta march were heard, the brothers of the fraternity led their guests down the stairway and into the dining room, radiant with the soft glow of candlelight. A network of blue and tan crepe paper formed a delightful canopy overhead. In the midst of the room issuing up from the green lowlands, arose a snow capped mountain peak, which gave forth a glowing appearance, and promise of a happy journey up its ascent.

AN UNFORTUNATE INCIDENT

Referring to the article on this page signed by one of the college fraternities it is unfortunate that that society has intimated that THE REVIEW is not a reputable publication. In past years it has not been nor is it now the policy of this paper to require signatures to all articles appearing in the columns of its editorial page, nor is it true that all reputable publications make such requirements.

Further, the article which appeared in last week's issue entitled, "Why the Miserable Failure" is not an anonymous article because the origin and the author of the article is known—the writer's name being withheld for the present.

The editor did not write the article as was explained in the note at the close of the above mentioned article.

In the light of existing circumstances it would seem only just and fair that the offending society should apologize to THE REVIEW for such an intimation.

College and Student Body First

The editorial in last week's issue entitled, "Why the Miserable Failure?" challenged the guilty party to give valid reasons for the action which has scrapped an attempt to eliminate rushing with its attendant grievances. The writer does not know whether such reasons will be forthcoming or whether an attempt will be made to continue the chosen policy. In any case one wonders how much the cause of fraternities in McMinnville College is helped by the frantic attempts of one of the societies to get ahead of the others.

There will always be a deal of difference between the small college and the university, both in the method of pursuing studies and in the social life. No matter how much we may favor the type of social life existing in our larger schools, some features of it have small place in a small college. The limited student body with its consequent intimacy and friendliness creates an atmosphere in which "clique-ism" is strangely out of place. Some may doubt the place of secret societies of any description in such an atmosphere. Others, of which the writer is one, agree that the local fraternity offers many advantages to the student and is a help in the general social life of the institution; provided, however, that the societies themselves take particular care to curtail the evils naturally attending such organizations.

No one can doubt that the greatest danger connected with our secret societies is the danger that they will become exclusive to the extent of putting the fraternity interests ahead of the welfare of the student body at large. Such a policy is manifested in the public display or parade of fraternity colors, the exclusive grouping and excited whispering of members in the halls and classrooms and in the continued advertising of the fraternity through rushing. Unless the members of all of the fraternities constantly remind themselves that their first duty is to the student body and unless their actions prove that student body interests really do dominate in their thoughts, it is doubtful if any fraternity earns its right to live in our student social democracy.

In this year when rushing has been the exception there has been a marked freedom from the feeling of strain and tension between members of different societies. That any have thrown themselves open to such relations is greatly to be regretted. Let each society gain its members by the quiet, honorable display of intrinsic worth on the part of each member in his daily life. Then shall our fraternities justify their existence to the fullest and the friendly spirit of our college be unbroken. C. F. RICHARDS.

NEW COLLEGE SONG

Words and Music by John Haug, '24
 McMinnville's team is out upon the field,
 They'll bravely fight; we know they will not yield.
 With loyal hearts they boldly press the fight,
 Until at last the foe is put to flight.
 See! They forge on! The goal is nigh at hand!
 Forge on again! You are a valiant band!
 To you our honors we in trust will lend;
 We're sure the game in victory shall end.

Sophomore Song

In the land of fir and pine trees,
 In a dear spot in the west,
 Stands a school of many virtues,
 That is ranked among the best.
 Old McMinnville is the title,
 No honor shall it lack,
 While the cardinal and purple
 Stand true to dear old Mac.

Chorus:—
 Repeat last four lines of first verse
 II.

In athletics as in studies,
 Always stand we at the head,
 In the race for higher culture
 We are hardly ever led.
 And we win athletic victories
 In both basketball and track,
 So let's hail our alma mater,
 All hail our dear old Mac.

To the Editor:

There is considerable comment among students to the effect that the anonymous article entitled, "Why the Miserable Failure?" which appeared on your editorial page in the last issue was a direct thrust at the Lambda Lambda Sigma fraternity.

If there is any question as to any action of the Fraternity we will welcome an opportunity to discuss it openly with any individual or group concerned.

Is it not true, however, that the Inter-Fraternity Conference is the properly constituted body to consider and act on such matters?

Is it not true that reputable publications require signatures to all contributed articles on the editorial page, and deny the use of its columns to anonymous articles?

Are we to believe that the writer of this contribution is unwilling to sponsor it or does the editor accept it as his own?

If there are any agreements or disagreements about rushing they can usually be adjusted by personal conference. Long distance shots from the cover of secrecy will only engender strife.

as the revolving wheel turned to a fateful number.

When all the pennies were spent and everyone was loaded down with a regular menagerie of prizes, the guests ascended to the upper floor. Here small tables, decorated tastefully in the fraternity colors of orange and black, awaited the arrival of those returning from the carnival. Delicious and dainty refreshments were served which pleased the palates of all.

Mr. Sanderman played a few beautiful pieces on the piano, and the boys sang their fraternity song. The hour of eleven approached only too soon, when the evening's entertainment came to a close. The girls certainly declare the members of the Alpha Gamma Nu fraternity to be royal entertainers.

The Phi Epsilon fraternity gathered in the palatial apartments of one of its members and with a full attendance profited by the program, the social features especially as well as the general discussion. Such meetings make clear the value of each others friendship and association.

Friday evening Zeta Chi was entertained at the home of Miss Mildred Jones with Miss Jones and Miss Flora Maloney as hostesses. A happy, social hour followed the business meeting and then a delightful lunch. The fraternity was glad to have with them again Miss Audrey Dielschneider, Miss Una Webster and Mrs. LaVerne Hardwick.

The Iota Omega Mu fraternity met in its entirety on Friday evening at 7:30 in the select and luxurious suite of one of its most honored members. The business of the evening disposed of, a short social hour was participated, followed by culinary concomittants to rejuvenate the katabolism of the cortical neurones and satiate the conspicuousness of the respective members.

The Delta Psi Delta fraternity held its weekly meeting last Friday evening at the Jackson home. A full attendance joined in the helpful discussion and helped honor the Muses of the Lighter View. The meetings are proving an inspiring factor in the lives of each brother of Delta Psi.

posited to everyone's credit in the bank of time. The question is, are you spending it carefully. A financial account can be increased but not so in the bank of time. A spendthrift of time is far worse than a spendthrift of money.

A worthy life can be measured in terms of energy. Personality, nerves, and heart throbs count tremendously in a successful life. The need of a strong body to stand the high pressure of our modern civilization is one of the great needs of the hour.

The third standard is that of intelligence. We are like God because we are intelligent. Man shares with God in the creative act. God willed electricity. Man willed the incandescent lamp. Develop your intellect by holding yourself to a hard task that needs deep concentrated thought. Don't let your brain go to seed.

The next standard was will. Examples of Mr. McAdoo's great tunnel project and David Livingston's pioneer work in Africa were cited. Their great successes were largely a matter of will. Make your will do something.

A worthy life can be measured in terms of moral discrimination. The ability to distinguish between right and wrong is imbedded in everyone. This is a mark of likeness to God.

The last mark of a worthy life is that of love. One cannot have a right estimate of life if one does not love rightly. The capacity to love is a divine gift.

ANOTHER SELF-MADE MAN

It had been a Herculean struggle. As he paused there at the summit, looking back over the way that he had come, he smiled with quiet exultation.

A poor orphan from childhood, he had been forced to toil from his early teens, uneducated, almost illiterate. Nevertheless, by sheer brute strength he had worked his slow way up, rung by rung, until now he stood at the very top.

The quiet smile deepened. But even as he smiled he knew that after all the moment of his triumph must pass; that he must yield his place in the sun to those others who pressed close behind.

With a gesture of ineffable weariness he dumped his load of bricks and started back down the ladder.

Around this the delta-shaped table was formed, daintily decorated with bouquets of pink carnations. The lighted candles shed forth their rays of light, blending the color scheme into a perfect harmony of peace and contentment. A scene of "Mac's" snow covered campus formed very artistic place cards for the occasion, while blue and tan booklets were used for programs.

A delightful two hours were spent in consuming the sumptuous repast while merriment and laughter reigned supreme. The oft invited guest at such functions, "Formality," was an absent person, thus all feeling of restraint was dropped, and a spirit of good will and friendliness prevailed.

After all the bodily wants were more than satisfied, the president, Mr. Paul Jackson, gave the signal for the ceasing of gaiety, and the intellectual feat was begun. In a brief review of the time of membership of some in the fraternity, he stated that one had been a member for many years, but consoled the brothers by the age-old adage, that they could "cheer up, for there would be no 'Cy' in heaven." Thus he introduced Professor "Cy" Richards as toastmaster for the evening.

The toasts were of a Shakespearian nature and were ably handled, doing credit to the great author who served as a model. Because of Mr. Charles Davis' ability to measure up to the greatest head measure, and also the greatest measure for shoe capacity he responded to the toast, "Measure for Measure." He recounted the measuring up of the members, from the one whose mother has to mow the grass three times a week to avoid losing him, to the one who sweeps the gray light from the horizon. A final appeal was made for the measuring up to true manhood, in the college life, and in the future.

Immediately following this, Mr. Hugh Whirry, rendered a pleasing piano solo, descriptive of the sea life in 1620.

Prof. Richards, knowing that there is a time for all things, and that Mr. Jackson has had time for dreams, let him speak for himself and respond to "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Some of the secrets of boy's dreams were disclosed, showing that the friendships with the fairer sex, had often been of assistance. His toast was proposed to the guests, to whose health the fraternity drank.

In appreciation to the compliments, Miss Minnie Larson responded in behalf of the guests with "The Comedy of Errors." The first act of the comedy was presented in the startling announcement that one of the handsome gentlemen present had proposed. A more serious side was shown in that the errors of the past might become the wisdom of the future, if used rightly.

The fraternity quartette next furnished their share of entertainment in the two songs, "Mammy's Li'l Boy" and "The Goblins 'll Get You if You Don't Watch Out." The numbers were especially delightful, and well given.

As a fitting conclusion to the delightful hours, Mr. Wilfrid Richards responded to "All's Well that Ends Well." His thoughts were directed to the student body of the college, in hopes that every student who left the institution, might be able to come to the end of the race successfully.

As there are mountain peaks of experience in every phase of life, so in the social life there are those occasions which rise up and are long remembered. Not because of the snow capped peak at which the guests gazed, but because of the delightful entertainment which the Delta Psi Delta's offered, will the guests remember this as one of the happy mountain top experiences of college life.

Articles of Inter-Fraternity Constitution Pertaining to Rush Day.

ARTICLE XI.—

Membership in the Fraternities

Section 1. Active membership in any of the undersigned Fraternities shall be limited to those students who have completed a four-year high school course or its equivalent. Those students who are registered in the Conservatory only must have Junior standing in the Conservatory in order to be eligible for active membership in any of the undersigned Fraternities.

Section 2. The faculty, their wives and husbands shall be honorary members only in the undersigned Fraternities.

ARTICLE XII.—Rushing

Section 1. No student, who shall have registered for the first time during the first week of the fall semester, shall be asked or invited to become a member of any Fraternity, until after 9:00 A. M. of the Wednesday of the eleventh week following his registration.

Section 2. No student registering for the first time after the first week of the semester, shall be invited to become a member of any Fraternity until after 9:00 A. M. of the day following the elapse of his eleventh week of attendance at McMinnville College.

Section 3. No student shall be initiated into full membership of any Fraternity, until he has registered for his second semester's work. During the period between his acceptance of the invitation from a Fraternity and his initiation into full membership, he shall not be allowed to attend any business meetings of the Fraternity. The period shall be a period of probation during which the invitation may be withdrawn by the Fraternity.

Section 4. New Faculty members of McMinnville College shall be subject to the same regulations as provided in Sections 1 and 2 of this article.

Section 5. No student registered in McMinnville College, who is not a Fraternity member, shall be invited to any regular Fraternity meeting. Regular meetings shall be defined as all meetings of any Fraternity except those two specified in Article IX.

ARTICLE XIII.—Inviting

Section 1. Each Fraternity shall have its invitations properly prepared for distribution to its prospective members and delivered to the office of the Dean of Women between 6:00 and 7:00 P. M. on Tuesday of the eleventh week of the first semester. The Dean of Women shall be custodian of these invitations and shall deliver these invitations to the prospective members after 9:00 A. M. of the following day.

Section 2. Rushing shall cease at 6:00 of the same evening on which the invitations are delivered to the Dean of Women. Rushing, in this connection, shall be considered as any communication other than a greeting.

Section 3. Each Fraternity shall elect from its membership one member, subject to the approval of the Conference, whose duty it shall be to answer questions regarding his Fraternity to prospective members.

Section 4. No student having received an invitation from any Fraternity in the Conference, shall give his decision until the elapse of forty-eight (48) hours from 9:00 A. M. of the day on which the invitation was received.

Section 5. No Fraternity shall solicit an answer from an invited person, but an answer shall be given by him to the Fraternity representative designated in Section 3 of this Article, and the name of the member provided for in Section 3 is.....
..... (name).

Section 6. A copy of Article XIII. of this Constitution shall be enclosed in each invitation.
