DEBATE SEASON

OPENS MARCH 12

P. U. IS COMING

TRIANGULAR CONTEST DATED
WITH WILLAMETTE FOR SAT-URDAY NIGHT

Japanese Question to be Subject of Much Fiery Contention

Next Saturday night McMinnville will scintillate the way she did Friday evening when the basketball team defeated Pacific University. Mac's debate season will open when her orators engage in a verbal combat with the representatives of Pacific U. and Willamette U. in the scheduled triangular contest.

At 7:30 P. M. March 12, in the chapel, there will be held one of the best and most fiery discussions ever heard in McMinnville. Pacific University's negative team is coming to argue with Charles Davis and Duncan Olmstead, McMinnville's strong affirmative duet on the popular and much agitated question, "Resolved, that all Japanese immigration, except student and diplomatic classes, should be prohibited." Both Davis and Olmstead have been working faithfully on the question and are confident of victory.

SPRING ATHLETIC TRAINING STARTED

Schedules to be Arranged March 19
Will Include Games and Meets
With Valley College Teams

Baseball manager "Heinie" Weiss and track manager "Wes" Henry issued the call for baseball and track turnouts yesterday. Since the good weather began many of the men have been limbering up getting ready for the spring workouts. Manager Weiss is expecting about thirty men to report for practice. The prospects for a winning aggregation are exceptionally bright with eight of last year's team back and each man expecting to make a fight for his old position. Suits are available for former lettermen.

The Independent College Athletic conference will meet in McMinnville March 19 to arrange the season schedule. Athletic directors and managers from the various schools will attend. Mac's schedule will include games with Pacific college, Pacific university, Albany college, and Chemawa.

Manager Henry has only three lettermen in school to start off his track season but expects about 20 to report at once. Several have already been busy circling the oval and are showing up well.

The diamond and track will be worked over at once and then put in final shape during the spring vacation.

FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY AS PRESIDENT IS CELEBRATED

DR. RILEY ACCEPTED PRESIDENCY OF COLLEGE MARCH 1, 1906.
WONDERFUL ACHIEVEMENTS ACCOMPLISHED DURING HIS
FIFTEEN YEARS OF DEVOTED LEADERSHIP

Last Tuesday, March 1, was an epochal day in the history of McMinnville college. Fifteen years ago, to the day, Dr. Riley entered upon his work as president. Many things have taken place in that period of time. Just prior to the election of Dr. Riley as president the board of trustees had been thinking seriously of closing the doors of the institution because of lack of funds. At that time the college had an endowment of only $15,000, and was approximately $35,000 in debt. The net assets amounted to only $70,000. The budget for that year was $8,000. The endowment today is $300,000, while the net assets of the institution are nearly $400,000. From the financial standpoint alone the change has been tremendous in the fifteen years and it stands as a monument to Dr. Riley's executive ability.

During these years the college has not only been placed on a more firm financial basis, but there have been marked improvements in other lines. At the time Dr. Riley became president only two years work above High school were offered. The enrollment was sixteen. Today there are 161 students in the college department, and a total registration of nearly 250. The faculty is double what it was then. The institution is now standardized by the bureau of education.

The library and laboratory facilities have been wonderfully enlarged and improved. Many other things may be mentioned which mark the progress of the college, such as acquisition of the president's home, and the girls' dormitory, and the position that the college holds in the denomination.

Today, the college is known all over the country, largely through the influence of its president as a result of his connections with the board of education and his prominent position on the board of the Northern Baptist convention. Dr. Riley is regarded by many prominent Baptists as one of the leading educators of the denomination, and the sphere of influence of the college is continually enlarging due to the tireless efforts of its devoted leader.

President Doney of Willamette university was invited to address the student body on the anniversary. He spoke on man's accumulation of power. He sketched the history of various customs and institutions that had served their time and then passed out of existence. The man with a cultivated brain without a cultivated heart is an unsafe citizen. Dr. Doney finished his strong address with a beautiful tribute to the denominational schools.

As a final act in the celebration of the day, President Riley dismissed classes for the afternoon. Many of the students availed themselves of the sunshiny afternoon and went on hikes.

The student body and faculty offer President Riley congratulations for the wonderful things he has wrought during the past fifteen years, and wish for him even brighter and more encouraging prospects in the future.

MAC HOOPSTERS

WIN FINAL GAME

FROM P. U. QUINTET

LOCAL BOYS PLAY UP TO FORM
AND TAKE CLOSING BATTLE
BY SIX POINT MARGIN

Contest Featured by Close Checking
at Every Stage of Game

In the final game of the season McMinnville college defeated the team from Pacific university by a score of 17-11.

The game was fast from start to finish and gave the crowd many a thrill. The score was tied several times during the first half ending with Mac two points to the good. The second half started off fast, each team securing a field goal and then holding the other team in close check. The game was featured by very close guarding in every minute of play, and the number of fouls called were very few for that kind of a game. Those called were mostly for technical offenses.

The deciding factor in the game was the fact that "Eddie" Kratt for McMinnville did some excellent foul shooting while the P. U. aggregation were unable to convert the free ones into counters. Both teams made the

PREP MINSTREL SHOW SCORES BIG SUCCESS

Amateur Darkies Delight a Crowded
House with Clever Stunts. Jazz
Orchestra Feature of Program

Immediately after the game last Friday evening the Preparatory Dramatic club, of which Miss Margaret Ramsey is the coach, staged a characteristic and entertaining minstrel show. As the crowd was gathering, wierd and syncopated strains of jazz rolled forth from a Tar Baby orchestra composed of Wit(less) Hall, Pete Olds(mobile), Almar Delderman, Chick(en) Hen(drie) and Stale Gater.

The program proper opened with a Medley Chorus in which four fair maidens and four stalwart gentlemen appeared with faces all blacked and attired in true characteristic "nigger" fashion, the colors of the Sunday go-to-meetin' dresses of the ladies and of the brilliant vests and sox of the gentlemen so loud that it was quite difficult to hear the music they were rendering. In the second number, the "Darktown Jazzomaniacs," three individuals suffered particularly, Dewey Maxwell, Chas. Davis and Professor Schlauch.

"The Coontown Thirteen Club" presented an organization of coons come together for the purpose of deciding which one of their men was to commit suicide, this lot falling to the nigger who chanced to select the black ball

WE WILL DO OUR BEST

The criticism passed on The Review in the communication signed E. C. V. appearing on the editorial page of last week's issue is in general a just criticism. However, in this particular case the attention of E. C. V. is invited to the additional announcement of Dr. Hall's coming found on page two of the issue dated February 15. No mention was made of that announcement in the communication. Prior to the arrival of any of the speakers mentioned in issue of February 8, an attempt was made to secure information regarding the speakers, their subjects, purposes, etc. The information there appearing was furnished by the committee under whose auspices the speakers came to McMinnville.

In as much as The Review is a weekly paper it is not an easy matter to publish very much news concerning coming events, except in the case of events that have been scheduled and arranged for at a considerable time previous to their happening. Certainly, it is the desire of the staff and the policy of the paper to give to the students the best that it is possible to give. However, in several cases where reporters have asked for advance news on coming events, information has been withheld because of indefinite plans at that date, and those same events have happened before the publication of the following issue. Is it not often true that events in McMinnville are thought of, planned, plans carried to completion, and the event over with, within the space of a week?

The appeal of the writer of the communication is, "Give us the news of events before they happen, as well as afterwards." The appeal of the staff might well be, "Give us the news of events before they happen, as well as afterwards," and it will be published in both cases.

Everybody will agree that the old time malady known as the "gimmies" is overworked in McMinnville most of the time, and it seems that those least affected by student body work and activities are most affected by the malady.

It is agreed that the student body ought to have a bigger and better paper, and it is hoped that before long a better publication will be arranged for. However, at any time, it would seem best to boost for what you have and help it to grow into something bigger and better in the future.

THE EDITOR.

A SOCIAL PROBLEM

It is a recognized fact that social training is a vital part of one's education. One has not availed himself of all that college life has to offer if he does not take advantage of the opportunities to mix and mingle in refined society. To be able to conduct one's self properly at social affairs and at the same time enjoy one's self is indeed an art.

The social life of any institution presents its peculiar problems along with other phases of college life. It is the purport of this article to provoke thought regarding a problem in our own social life. There seems to have grown up on our campus an unwritten law, tradition, custom, or whatever you may choose to call it, concerning the keeping of company. This custom seems to have this effect on the social life, that if a young man takes a young lady to three or four important social events which occur in close sequence the feeling is prevalent that there is a "match."

This feeling has a peculiar reaction on subsequent social affairs. This feeling that the young man and young lady are keeping steady company places the young lady in an embarrassing position. As a result, the other men of the institution do not consider it proper to ask the young lady's company for some event because they do not want to interfere.

As stated above, the young lady is put in an embarrassing position and also the young man. When he asks for a date, after he has taken her out three or four times previously, she feels that if she doesn't accept his offer she will be deprived of attending the social event. This affects her in another way. It prevents her from enlarging her circle of friends among the men in the institution.

On the other hand, the young man feels that if he doesn't take her out after this "feeling" has become prevalent that no other fellow will and the lady will either have to go alone or stay at home.

So it goes. There are many points about the problem. There are many and various ideas concerning this question and many exceptions to the rule. There seems to be no question, however, but that the custom works an injustice. It prevents the men from taking different young ladies to different affairs and thus some girls are deprived of many social good times. It prevents both men and women from enlarging their acquaintance and friendship circles.

If rugged beauty you would know,
Come for a trip thru South Idaho;
You may upon the broad highway
Go for a rambling holiday.
If you would revel in the lore,
Revealed in nature's bounteous store
For you these hills and valleys hold
A wondrous history to unfold.

If falls and canyons speak to thee,
Come, read Shoshone's mystery—
Whose thundering cataract and spray
Are rivals of Niagara.
While mists that gather o'er its brim
Rise to the towering canyon rim;
The river plunging on its way
To scenes where pools more tranquil play.

Within its course, revealed to you,
Are thousand springs and lakes of blue,
And lovely Twin Falls, fitly named,
For their majestic beauty famed.
Soon breaking from the canyon deep,
More lieurely its way doth keep,
Expanding like a bright sunbeam,
Becomes a broad and smiling stream.

No matter where your pathway trends,
Each terminus a story lends.
Those verdant fields, one desert lands,
Were roamed by hostile Indian bands.
These mountain peaks and canyons
grand,
These lavas seen on every hand,
Reveal primeval nature's throes,
E'er fertile soil to sunshine rose.

A land where placid lakes abound,
For varied climates, too renowned.
Her wonderful hills and lovely

Fulfill the sportsman's fondest dreams.
Here matchless stars, and sunsets
play,
Rivaled only by the break of day.
Oh! Southern Idaho, I sing to you,

DEBATE SEASON OPENS
MARCH 12—P. U. COMING

On the same evening Paul Jackson and Sylvester Cross meet Willamette at Salem. They will debate the negative of the same question. Willamette has for several years had the strongest teams in the league, but this year the negative team is sure that Willamette will meet her Waterloo. Coach Jewell will accompany the boys to Salem.

There has been a fine spirit at the basketball games this past season. More pep and enthusiasm has been shown this year than Mac has known for many years. Your pep is needed Saturday night at the debate. Yelling and singing will put the fight in the Mac team that will make victory certain. Help them to win by your presence and enthusiasm.

A short musical program will be rendered in addition to the debate. Come, invite your friends to come. Bring all the noise makers you can gather together and show P. U. how to stage a curtain raiser, and the local team will show them how to debate.

FACULTY BOOK SHOWER BENEFITS COLLEGE LIBRARY

In connection with a recent faculty meeting held at the home of President Riley the faculty members had a book shower which resulted in the addition of about fifty volumes to the college library. Several of the professors gave books that they especially desired for the work in their own departments. Among the books donated were several volumes of good fiction.

A social hour followed the business of the evening.

Erston Noftsinger led the regular weekly meeting last Wednesday. No special subject was selected so the meeting was thrown open for a general discussion of any story or verse in the Bible that had been of special inspiration to any of those present. The discussion centered largely around the story of the rich young ruler. Many helpful thoughts were presented.

HALF PULLMAN BOYS EARN COLLEGE COSTS

More than half of the young men students at the Washington State college this year are earning all their expenses while obtaining a college education, and a large percentage doing so during the college term, according to an investigation just completed by Harry M. Chambers, alumni secretary.

Only seventeen per cent of the men students are wholly independent of their own earning power while pursuing their studies. His complete analysis shows the following figures: Fifty-one per cent earn all their expenses, 5 per cent earn two-thirds; 15 per cent earn one-half, and 12 per cent earn one-third. Forty-eight per cent earn from one-third to all of their expenses during the term.

300 VOLUMES RECEIVED FROM LIBRARY OF FORMER TRUSTEE

Recently the college received a shipment of books donated to the library from the private library of the late James F. Failing who was a prominent member of the board of trustees from the year 1901 until the date of his death last October. The gift contains about three hundred volumes, many of which will be valuable as reference books in the various departments of the college. Several good works of fiction were included in the donation.

same number of field baskets. Taylor was high point man for P. U. with three field goals while Kratt was high man for the local team with nine points to his credit.

The home team was just commencing to hit its stride as the season closed. This was due partly to the fact that Coach Gildea had been with the boys for the last two weeks and also because the number of games scheduled was limited by the number of independent colleges that they were able to secure games with owing to the fact that the faculty would not permit the team to play games with any but college organizations. In spite of several handicaps, including a broken schedule, the team developed into a winning aggregation, giving a good account of itself in the last three games of the season.
