MISS CHRISTENSON ELECTED TO REIGN AS QUEEN OF MAY

POPULAR MEMBER OF SENIOR CLASS CHOSEN BY STUDENT BODY TO BE CROWNED
APRIL 6

May 5 to be Day of Preparation for
Biggest Day of College Year

Last Friday the student body endeavored to elect a May Queen from the four most popular young ladies in the college, Misses Mildred Christenson, Delia Ingram, Elizabeth Pangborn, and Elizabeth Stewart. As in previous years the queen was not chosen as none of the candidates received a majority vote.

Yesterday, in the regular monthly meeting of the A. S. M. C., the final election for Queen of May was held between the two nominees receiving the highest number of votes in the previous election, Miss Mildred Christenson and Miss Elizabeth Pangborn. Miss Christenson was elected, receiving 113 votes to 63 cast for Miss Pangborn. From now until the time of her coronation Princess Mildred I will be engaged in the selection of her court which shall attend her upon the day of her crowning.

Princess Mildred is a member of the senior class and a member of Kappa Alpha Phi. She has always been active in many phases of college life and

NOMINATE A. S. M. C. OFFICERS APRIL 11

(Comment on Editorial Page)

A student body meeting will be held Monday, April 11, for the purpose of receiving nominations for student body officers for next year.

Following are the officers to be nominated: President—must be chosen from the Junior class; Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer—must be a member of the faculty, Editor of The Review, Manager of The Review, Editor of "Oak Leaves," Manager of "Oak Leaves," General Associated Student Manager, Yell Leader, and Song Leader.

The regular chapel hour on Thursday, April 21, will be devoted to the election of these officers.

University women from nearly a score of nations were present at recent first meeting of the International Federation of University Women, which was held at Bedford College, London. The purpose of the federation is to promote friendly relations and the exchange of the students and professors, and to conduct independent research in matters of municipal and public welfare.

ALL-COLLEGE MIX PROVES GRAND SUCCESS ON APRIL 1

IDEAL DAY FOR OUTDOOR EVENTS . GIRLS' BASEBALL GAME THRILLING FEATURE OF SPLEN DID ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Abundance of Eats Provided by Liberal Hearted Committee. Speech Program and Pep Rally Held on College Steps Following Repast

The All-College Mix was a grand success. Not a more ideal day could have been selected than April 1. Old King Sol poured forth his warmth and sunshine, making the heart of everyone glad.

The committee, under the direction of Gen'l. A. S. M. C. manager Davis, had planned a splendid program, and much credit is due them for the success of the day.

The ball started rolling at four o'clock when the baseball squad staged a real mid-season game that resulted in a 7-1 victory for the winners. Both teams were hitting well, running bases in grand style, pulling some phenomenal fielding stunts.

The girls indoor baseball game between the Blondes and the Brunettes was the real feature of the athletic events. A more exciting game has not been seen on the local diamond for years. This was the girls' first public performance and they played stellar ball from start to finish. "Mother" Potter officiated as umpire assisted by Professor VanOsdel. The sideline support was excellent. The Blondes won the honors of the day with a 12-5 score.

Immediately following the girls' game, the boys staged a snappy contest in which the Blonds romped off with a 7-4 victory.

Returning to the turf 'neath the old oak, great excitement reigned while the Blondes carried off the honors in a peanut race. At this point the Preps stepped in an invited the crowd to the "Silent Oak" in the grove. Here one of their orators delighted his assembled audience with the address of the day "The Spring Gathering of Nuts."

Next the appetite of everyone was

INDIAN OPERETTA SCHEDULED FOR MAY

Tentative Plan is For Production to Be Given Evening of Day Following May Day

The Girls' Glee club of the College has been working faithfully on an Indian Operetta entitled "The Feast of the Red Corn." The books arrived some time ago and the girls have been, for several weeks, enjoying the rehearsals, looking forward with keen anticipation to the time when the production can be staged in its entirety. The tentative plan is for the operetta to be played if possible, out of doors, on the evening of the day after May Day.

The story goes that the chief of the Indian tribe has departed some time ago for the Northland and has not as yet returned. The Queen is very anxious about him and much disturbed at his long delay. The Old Squaw calls to the North Wind, and to the South Wind, and to the East Wind and to the West Wind but none of them will heed her call. She makes her wish known, that Little Red Ear be returned in safety, but finally cries out that the four Winds will grant "No-wish—, No-o-wish." The reason for this failure they think, is that "Somebody has been up to something" causing the four Winds not to respond. It is finally discovered that a good many impish things have been done by Im-

REGULAR TRACK TRAINING BEGUN

Letter Men Working Hard—New Material Showing up Well. First Meet April 16

The most important season of the year is now here. How lovely it is to stroll through the various lanes and other way points after four o'clock. But is this a man's job? Ask a track man.

Training for track has begun in earnest. McMinnville has one of the best tracks in the country and with a little more work it will stand unrivaled. Last year the track team was forced to pick up the hoe and rake and clean off the entire track. This is not giving the athletes a fair chance as they have to undergo the hardest sort of training in preparation for the meets. An appeal is made to the students to come out and help get the track in shape and show a little of the Old Mac spirit.

There are only three letter men back this year, but still there are prospects for a good team. The Prep department is furnishing some excellent material among whom are: Hickok, the miler, with E. Hall and Marsh and Locke coming strong. "Slimmy" Hill, the third sacker, seems to have everything his way in the high jump.

The men representing the college department are: George Paul who is showing up well in the half mile heat;

2ND TRIANGULAR DEBATE CLASH WON BY WILLAMETTE U.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY WINS OVER
MAC; WILLAMETTE DEFEATS
McMINNVILLE AND P. U.

Question of Irish Independence Subject of Contention

The second triangular debate between Willamette University, Pacific University, and McMinnville college was held last Friday evening. The question of Irish independence was discussed by the girls' teams of these schools, the negative teams traveling. Pacific came to McMinnville, McMinnville to Willamette, and Willamette went to Forest Grove.

Pacific at McMinnville

The debate held in the local chapel resulted in a decision of 2-1 for Pacific. It was a close debate and the members of both teams deserve a great deal of credit for the splendid showing.

Miss Ruth O'Keefe and Miss Sarah Christiansen represented Mac and Miss Ellen Anderson and Miss Vivian Hipple argued for P. U. speaking in the order mentioned. The affirmative claimed independence for Ireland for the following reasons: (1) British Oppression in Ireland demands independence; (2) Ireland is capable of maintaining her own independence; (3) Ireland has the moral right of self-determination. Both speakers were strong and forceful in their delivery

MAC BALL TOSSERS MEET P. U. APRIL 8

The first baseball game of the season will be played at Forest Grove next Friday afternoon. The prospects for a winning team are exceptionally bright this year. The splendid weather of the past week has permitted the men to get in good shape for the coming battle, but there is still room for improvement.

The lineup that will start the game next Friday has not yet been definitely determined as there are two and in some cases three men fighting for each position. The pitching staff is much stronger than that of last year and there are two receivers who will outguess and baffle the keenest of opposing batsmen. The infielders and outfielders are playing up to the best of pre-season form, and every man is developing a healthy swing with the hickory.

Last season the Pacific team defeated the Mac aggregation at Forest Grove in a well played game. Revenge is sweet and the boys are leaving next Friday for P. U. with the intention of getting their share of the sweets.

LEARNING RESPECT

Disrespect is probably one of the greatest American characteristics—disrespect for law, for traditions, for great men, for almost everything. If a man professes to be nothing, to have nothing, and to want nothing, he is certain of good treatment; but let him try to hold his head a little above the level of those who don't care, and immediately the mud begins to fly.

Professor Gardiner hit the nail on the head in his chapel talk last week and most of his pointed remarks hit mighty close to home with the majority of those who heard him, and was exactly the jolt that most of us needed.

Americans seem to think that equality means deriding the efforts of everyone who tries to make more than a selfish living. They seem to think that freedom means license. They entirely lack that sense of self-control and decency that allows a good thing to exist unmaligned. Whether it is because so many of us are descendants of free-booters, no one knows, but certainly the same spirit is there.

Here in college the same spirit is manifest. To be sure of ridicule, one need only to stand up for that which is right. To be certain of mean whisperings one need merely try to publicly serve the college. Students fail to revere and respect the man who is clothed with the dignity of a lifetime of service for his fellowmen. Professors or students, to become popular, need only to show signs of carelessness, weakness, or indifference. To maintain an unbroken front of decency is to face disapproval.

Some day Americans, college students among them, will learn to respect those who stand a little higher; they will learn to enjoy liberty without abusing it; they will learn that a person can be "human" without being careless or weak—but that day is probably far off.

STUDENT BODY ELECTIONS

Elections begin to gain in importance at this season of the year and the reticence that is observed in discussing such matters is to be deplored. There should be more of an open freedom in considering the qualifications of individuals and requirements of offices. Frequently the comment is passed that a certain individual is electioneering for his group or his friend when an open interest is displayed. Condemnation on that ground alone should not be brought forth. However, there is room for criticism if a person works for a man who is a friend of his and supports him for that reason when he may not have the qualifications. Each member of the student body should decide before hand who is the person for each office and support that person and not wait till time for nominations and then look around the assembled crowd and whoever gets his attention is the man of his choice. A thoughtful consideration of who should be who and why, should weigh down the gray matter of every member of the A. S. M. C.

Next Monday, April 11, nominations will be made for the student body offices, so be prepared. Election day will be Thursday, April 21. A. W.

OUR CHALLENGE

The side lines of support in college activities have played a great part in the much boasted and well deserved loyalty which the students have for Mac. This aspect of our college life is unique, for by it every student may aid in bringing honor and glory to the name of our institution.

Proud were we when town reports came that Mac this year was surpassing former years in her invigorating rallies. Enthusiastically have the girls been participators in these, and later cheered from grandstand seats for these occasions. Gladly did the girls give of their money and energy to purchase for the basketball boys the much needed blankets on the floor. Eagerly did we share in the appreciation to Coach Gildea as a tribute from our student body for the work he had done for the boys and the college. And we rejoice that we have been able to share in this. The basketball season is ended, and we are proud of the work which our boys did and the honor which they brought to us.

However, not in any lesser degree has our college been honored, by the brain power recently manifested by our debaters. The same side line reinforcements were needed there for those fighting. Think back, "to thine own self be true," and see if our walls there were as impregnable as on the basketball floor.

How many basketball boys filled side line trenches? Where were those same boys, who in A. S. M. asked the girls for support of time, energy and money? In debating, we agree, the interest is different, for we cannot count the balls our debaters are throwing into the basket, but as upholders of a loyal student body, is this what counts? However, the season of debate is also over, and we are proud of the debaters who have given their best and honored our institution.

Our spring activities are yet to come! As girls we are going to root harder, boost higher, and make the grandstand ring for those hard fought battles of baseball.

But boys of Mac, We CHALLENGE YOU! Will you be loyal enough to be rooters in the side line seats of college activities aside from those athletics in which you yourselves participate? D. E. I.

Ten Golden Maxims

1. Honor the chief. There must be a head to everything.
2. Have confidence in yourself and make yourself fit.
3. Harmonize your work. Let sunshine radiate and penetrate.
4. Handle the hardest job first each day. Easy ones are pleasures.
5. Do not be afraid of criticism—criticize yourself often.
6. Be glad and rejoice in the other fellow's success—study his methods.
7. Do not be misled by dislikes. Acid ruins the finest fabric.
8. Be enthusiastic—it is contagious.
9. Do not have the notion that success means simply money making.
10. Be fair and do at least one decent act every day in the year.—Pacific Mutual Pointer.

President, Minnie Larson; Vice-President, Gretta Goude; Secretary, Osa Northup; Treasurer, Mary Ballard. Chairmen: Religious Meetings, Delia Ingram; Membership, Gretta Goude; Bible Study, Sarah Christianson; Missionary, Olga Anderson; Finance, Vivian Stewart; Social, Myrtle Ballard; High School Club, Esther Telcher; Publicity, Ola Davis; Social Service, Frances Moore; Employment, Alice Oliver; Music, Alma Carstens; Rooms, Janet Riley; Faculty adviser, Mrs. C. C. Potter.

The first meeting of the new Y. W. C. A. year was conducted by the new president, Minnie Larson, on the topic "Run, sheep, run." The leader brought out the fact that life was a big game with Christ as our shepherd and even as we play the game of life successfully, so we should play the game of Christian association squarely and fairly, not only in the weekly services, but each day upon the campus. Plans were outlined for the coming year and it is the aim of the Y. W. C. A. and each member to play the game as never before.

Special music by Esther Telcher was an inspiration to each girl present.

AN OVERSIGHT

In the baseball schedule published last week the game with Albany college at Albany on April 22 through an oversight was omitted. This is one of the big contests of the season. The game will be played on a Friday afternoon, and the Mac track team will arrive on Saturday morning to meet the Albany track team. Start boosting now for a double victory over Albany as this is the first time the two schools have met in baseball.

Y. M. C. A. TO ELECT OFFICERS TOMORROW

Last Wednesday the Y. M. C. A. received nominations for officers for next year. The following were nominated:

President—Sylvester Cross, Weston Henry, Carl Nissen; Vice-President—Allan Arnold, Halsey Carstens, Russell Elliott, Oscar Meddaugh; Secretary—John Crump, Allrick Erickson, Oscar Gladdish, Orin Wilson; Treasurer—Earl Druse, Harvey Locke, William Maxwell, Worth Wright.

The election will be held tomorrow.

MY PRAYER

O God of the storm, with its howling, rough blast;
 With its power, and its fury, and flash;—
 In the midst of whose raging the weak cannot last
 In a landscape that's rent by its dash;—
 O give me a soul like the storm, I pray,
 To crush all that hinders my Heavenly way.

O God of the flower, that bends over the stream,
 And sways to and fro in the breeze;
 With its sweet fairy face, like some delicate dream,
 As it bows to the towering trees;
 O give me a soul like the flower, I pray,
 That my life may be humble, more humble each day.

O God of the sky, with its vastness of space,
 Where the far distant suns blaze bright;
 Where systems have vied in an infinite race,
 Thru the ages, day and night;
 O give me a soul like the sky, I pray,
 A magnanimous soul, to reach up—out—away. H. R. C.

KAPPA ALPHA PHI PATRONESSES SERVE LUNCHEON TO SORORITY

A most delicious four-course luncheon was served to the girls of the Kappa Alpha Phi sorority, by their patronesses, Mrs. Addison Braly, Mrs. Walter Hembree, Miss Ella Hendrick, Mrs. William Houck, Mrs. Ward Sitton, Mrs. Ward Wisecarver, on Saturday, April second. The first course was served at the home of Mrs. Braly. The tables were tastefully decorated in the Kappa colors with beautiful jonquils. At the end of this course, a tray containing daffodils was passed around, and each girl took one, hoping to find the one which, as Mrs. Braly explained, contained her fortune. Mother Potter was the lucky one, so she read the fortune which beckoned all to go to 610 N. E. St. to the home of Mrs. Hembree. Here a delicious second course was served. From there the girls proceeded to the home of Mrs. Wisecarver, where a refreshing salad course was relished. Another fortune wrapped around "all-day suckers" bade the girls proceed to Mrs. Houck's for some sweets. Last, but not least, was the desert which appealed to the "sweet tooth" of every one present. Some April fool's candy was served, upon which the girls all truly "bit." The progressive luncheon was surely a surprise to all the girls, and a delightful one.

MILDRED CHRISTENSON TO REIGN AS QUEEN OF MAY

well deserves the honor that has been bestowed upon her.

The constitution of the A. S. M. C. provides for a grand and glorious celebration the first Friday of May, the day when all work and worry shall cease, and the day upon which the newly elected princess shall be crowned with due pomp and splendor, and shall reign supreme in her kingdom upon the campus of McMinnville college.

In preparation for this momentous occasion the Thursday preceding May Day shall be a day of work when the kingdom shall be put in order and everything made ready for the crowning event. Thursday is not considered a holiday, and every student is expected to be present on the campus from 8:15 a. m. until properly relieved by officials in charge.

The faculty shall constitute a committee to have general supervision and control of the activities of Campus Day, and the apportionment of the students into committees. The student body president, general student manager, and one faculty member will do the supervising of all activities including the May Day program.

The baseball diamond, the track, and the tennis courts will all be put in the best possible condition for the contests to be held in honor of the queen, where the warriors of her kingdom will do battle in the presence of her Royal Majesty. The throne will be built and the campus decorated, and by six o'clock on that Thursday evening everything will be in readiness for the biggest day of the year.

In order that May Day might be a grand success every student should begin planning now. Committees will soon be appointed, and announcements will be posted from time to time. If every member of the student body will do his part McMinnville college will have the grandest and most glorious May Day ever celebrated.

SEASON'S FIRST CALAMITY

The rookie baseball pitcher
Came to call upon his girl;
He waited in the parlor
While she put her hair in curl.
When she appeared he told her
"I am going far away:
I'm going down to Texas
With a big league team to play."

She shed a briny teardrop
As she dimmed the parlor lamp,
"I'll miss you something awful,"
Whispered she—the little vamp.
He put his arm around her
And gave a little squeeze.
She pouted as she chirruped:
"Hug me tighter, if you please."

He grabbed her 'round the waistline,
Gave her one terrific hug,
Then a look of pain and horror
Was depicted on his mug.
His heart was full of anguish
And he cried in wild alarm:
"My baseball hopes have vanished!
I have strained my pitching arm!"

TRAINING BEGUN

Manager Henry, Bentson, and Hornbeck are working hard on the mile. Chas. Davis swings a mighty arm on the discus as also does Bentson.

The track men are glad to welcome back Milt Coe, the 440 man. No one on the team competes with Coe in this event as his past record speaks for itself. The men trying out for the sprints are Milt Coe, Jake Manley, and "Wamp" Hoberg. Claude Proffitt is gaining height in the pole vault, and Hansard will soon be back in his former high hurdle form.

Only through hard work and consistent training under Coach Shirley will the team be able to compete successfully against P. U., Albany and others. Everybody boost for the track team and come out and help to win from P. U. on April 16. R. W. H.

pee Light and the wrath of the tribe is turned upon her. They threaten to burn her at the stake but as they make the threat the three children of the Queen check such action by their disapproval, singing "Weeda wanta, Weeda-wanta, Weeda-wanta." Impee Light is not harmed but is sorry for her naughty deeds, which have been told in song by one of the children of the Queen. At last there comes a message that Little Red Ear is soon to return and joy once more prevades the activities of the tribe. The operetta closes with a pulsing unison chorus entitled, "O Little Red Ear, Be Mine," and the curtain descends on a group of Indian maidens eagerly awaiting the return of Little Red Ear.

The music of the operetta is very "Indian" and is so written as to intensify the mysterious effects of the play. Those taking the principal parts are as follows: Queen Wanta Mildred Jones; Impee Light, sister of the Queen, Jessie Jeffery; Fudgee, Pudgee, and Wudgee, the three children of the Queen, Leona Walker, Peggy Goude and Dorothy Campbell, respectively; and the Old Squaw, Esther Telcher. Mother Potter is very enthusiastic in her training of the club and is also assisted in the stage work by Professor and Mrs. Richards, and at the piano by Halsey Carstens. It is thought that the large platform erected under the Old Oak for May Day would be an ideal place for presentation if the weather permits. If not, the stage of the Chapel will be arranged and the operetta will be given indoors.

appeared. Such eats are seldom found anywhere. Abundant variety and plenty of everything, even plenty of ice cream.

Following the repast the crowd gathered on the college steps for the more serious part of the program. President Whitman delivered a short and snappy address and later introduced the speakers of the evening in a very complimentary manner. Jake Manley, tennis manager; "Wamp" Hoberg, track captain; Harold Bliss, baseball captain, each spoke of the prospects of their respective spring sports. Elizabeth Pangborn very cleverly entertained with a reading depicting the trials of an inexperienced and unlearned colored gentleman who was attempting to arrange for a passage on a train. Sylvester Cross spoke of the value of debate to the individuals who participate and of the honor that comes to the institution through that branch of student activities.

In the absence of Kenneth Riley, yell king, Jake Leger, song leader, took charge and conducted a rousing pep rally for the debate which immediately followed. This closed the events of the day and the happy students sought seats in the chapel where Sarah Christiansen and Ruth O'Keefe met the girls' team from Pacific University.

2ND TRIANGULAR DEBATE WON BY WILLAMETTE U.

setting forth their arguments in a convincing manner.

The negative team was equal to the occasion at all times refuting arguments and developing a clearcut defensive on the following points: (1) The principle of self determination does not apply to Ireland; (2) Granting independence to Ireland will weaken England; (3) Independence would be a disadvantage to Ireland; (4) There is a better solution to the Irish problem. Both rebuttals were forceful and convincing and it was anybody's victory until the ballots were counted.

McMinnville at Salem.

Miss Eunice Hart and Miss Edith Clark met the affirmative team of Willamette University at Salem.

The argument for the negative was opened by Miss Hart. In a clear forceful manner she showed that Ireland had a share in her own government and that the British had given Ireland a square deal. Miss Clark in a well organized speech and in a comprehensive way argued that Home Rule for Ireland meant Rome rule. She discussed the international complications that would result from a free Ireland and brought out the fact that only a minority of Irish people wanted independence.

The affirmative team representing Willamette had two main points, (1) Independence was the only solution of the Irish question, (2) Ireland was entitled to her independence. The W. U. girls showed careful preparation in their arguments. Their delivery was polished. Perhaps up until the affirmative rebuttal the decision would have gone to the negative team. In the affirmative rebuttal the whole argument of their side was clinched and summarized resulting in a decision of 2-1 for W. U.. The Negative team accredited themselves well and proved to be able debaters. It was a close contest as shown by the decision of the judges.
