STUDENT DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE IN CHICAGO

Constitution Drawn Up to Be Nation-Wide

Resolved, That the National Convention of Universities and Colleges on International Relations, including representatives of more than two hundred universities and colleges assembled at Chicago, November 12, 13 and 14, 1921, desires to express its deep appreciation of the importance and significance of the step which the President of the United States, has taken in calling the conference at Washington on the limitation of armaments and related matters.

Resolved, that this convocation expresses with unqualified enthusiasm its hearty approval of the auspicious beginnings of the conference already made, and of the words of the President and of the Secretary of State, which express, we believe, not only the purposes of the administration, but the heart and conscience of the people of America.

Resolved, that in the opinion of this conference it is a matter of supreme consequence and of happy augury that various nations of the world have sent their delegates to Washington to discuss the limitation of armaments and to dispose of existing difficulties that may menace the peace of the world.

Resolved, that it is our belief that the subjects to be discussed by the conference at Washington deeply affect the welfare of the world and that its students, alumni and faculties of the colleges and universities here represented, most earnestly hope that in the spirit already shown every effort will be made in good faith and in high honor to achieve the purposes for which the conference was called, namely:

The limitation of armaments;
The reduction of armies to the lowest practicable limits;

And that the underlying causes of war, such as the disputes or differences of apparent interest in the Pacific be composed in the spirit of harmony and good will.

Resolved, that in the opinion of the convocation the public should be acquainted with the stages of the progress of the conference as far as consistent with the deliberations of the conference, and that the final conclusions and the reasons for reaching them be fully published to the world.

Resolved, that the convocation expresses the hope that the conference may be a first step leading to international cooperation for the preservation of peace;

Resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent to the President of the United States, the Secretary of State and to all colleges and universities.

General Nathan William MacChesney,
University of Michigan.

Charles S. Deneen,
McKendree College.

Andrew C. McLaughlin,
University of Chicago.

Charles H. Judd,
Wesleyan University.

Edward A. Miller,
Oberlin College.

And in addition, be it further

Resolved, that this convocation aroused by the consideration of the great problems now under discussion at Washington calls the attention of college and university officers and students to the necessity of providing more fully than do present courses of instruction in American educational institutions for an intelligent understanding of the problems of national and international life. To the end that present defects in these matters be corrected, it is urged that courses of instruction be provided which shall acquaint students in schools and colleges with the fundamental necessity of social cooperation and the disastrous consequences of the lack of international harmony and war.

We, the representatives of 225 colleges assembled, at Chicago, Illinois, on November 13 and 14, 1921, do authorize the national organization outlined below:

NAME:
Section 1: The name of this organization shall be: "The National Student Committee for the Limitation of Armaments."

PURPOSE:
Section 2: Its purpose shall be to stimulate among college students an interest in the issues confronting the Washington conference; and to mobilize and make articulate student sentiment relative thereto.

FUNCTION:
Section 3: It shall seek to achieve these purposes by:
a. Furnishing speakers on disarmament to the colleges.
b. Preparing pertinent syllabi.
c. Encouraging meetings for study and discussion.
d. Conducting simultaneous straw votes expressive of undergraduate and faculty opinion.
e. Doing whatever else will, in the opinion of the executives, further the cause of international disarmament.

STRUCTURE:
Section 4: The structure of the organization shall be as follows:

a. Each institution participating in this movement shall be represented by an undergraduate whose duty it shall be to adapt the National Program to the institution.

b. The representative referred to above shall join with the representatives of the other colleges in his state in electing a state chairman, whose duty it shall be to effect the purposes of the organization in his state.

c. The states shall be grouped in five regions as indicated below:

Eastern—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, District of Columbia.

North Central—Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota.

South Central—Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky.

Pacific Coast—Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada.

Western—Montana, Idaho, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma.

South Atlantic—Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama.

d. The State Chairman of each region shall elect from their number a Regional Chairman.

e. The five regional chairmen shall constitute the National Administrative Committee.

f. The National Administrative Committee shall appoint a National Chairman, not one of their own number, to serve as the National Executive officer.

g. The National Administrative Committee shall appoint an honorary National Chairman.

FINANCE:
Section 5: The expenses of the State, Regional and National branches of the organization shall be defrayed by assessments on the colleges which shall be based on their enrollment; and by such contributions from other sources as may be forthcoming. The funds shall be collected and administered by the National Committee.

Section 6: This plan of organization shall go into effect immediately upon adoption by this Conference and every institution here represented shall be considered to have ratified it unless it shall specifically withdraw.

REED COLLEGE MAN WINS RHODES AWARD

Tom Brockway Choice of Oregon Committee; 32 Scholars in America Selected out of 506 Candidates

Tom P. Brockway, Reed graduate of 1921, Saturday was chosen from a group of 11 candidates by the committee of selection as the Rhodes scholar of Oregon. The committee of selection was in session from 9 o'clock Saturday morning until midnight, when the final report had to be sent the American secretary at Swarthmore college.

Brockway is an instructor in the English department at Oregon Agricultural college. At Reed he was one of the most popular students graduated. His scholastic record shows that his standing was above that of the average. In his last year he was president of the student body, president of the athletic association, editor of the college publication, and for three years a newspaper correspondent. In athletics he was on football, basketball and tennis teams. In 1918, before the signing of the armistice, he was sent to the reserve officers' training camp at Fort McArthur, Texas.

The members composing the Oregon committee of selection are Prince L. Campbell, president University of Oregon, chairman; A. C. Newill, Portland board of education; Professor J. B. Harrison, University of Washington; Professor W. C. Barnes, University of Oregon, and Richard F. Scholz, president of Reed college.

The committee recommended Norman T. Byrne of the University of Oregon as a candidate at large.

MEMBERS OF ROOK CLASS JOIN FRATS

After all is said and done the easiest way to tell the story of Rush Day is to give the pledges to the fraternities and sororities.

The spirit this year has been one of friendly rivalry and fair play among the fraternities and sororities, while each was anxious that his fraternity should be wholly successful in the acquiring of new members, yet there was no one who, losing a good man, could not go up and gracefully congratulate the members of the successful organization and both feel the better for it.

The Kappa Alpha Phi sorority announces the following as pledge members: Emily Craig, Evelyn Hayton, Lillian Jonasson, Ruth Riley, Eva Cummins.

The Lambda Lambda Sigma sorority announce as their pledge members: Helen Blom, Dorothea Baldwin, Lois Smith, Alice Dow, Lona Cole.

The Phi Epsilon fraternity announce the following as their pledge members: Walter Gowen, Ursus Brock, Donald Stow, Verne Duncan, Leland Duncan.

The Alpha Gamma Nu fraternity announce as their pledge members: Ernest Losli, Arthur Wilson, Harris Erickson, Ben Wright, Ray Geise.

The I. O. M. fraternity announces as pledge members, Floyd Miller, Alvin Rhodes, Reese Doak, Gordon Leger, and John Duffin.

NEW VOLUMES FOR LIBRARY

The Encyclopedia Americana in thirty volumes has just been added to the library. The last volume of this great work was completed only a few months ago. The volumes are handsomely bound in fabricoid with marbled edges. The paper is an improved India paper. No doubt this work will be used extensively for reference in most of the departments. One of the timely articles covering several hundred pages is the one on the recent war. The details of this war are presented from many different angles. An important feature of the encyclopedia is the "Classified Index" in volume 30. By means of this index the student is enabled to bring together from different parts of the work such articles or parts of articles which are related to the subject in which he may be interested. The usefulness of this index will become more apparent by a careful study of the Introduction and Alphabetical Key found on the first pages of volume 30.

The following new periodicals have been added to our list: Country Life, The Literary Review, and The Historical Outlook. All of these will be of interest to the faculty and students. We have every reason to feel proud of the excellent collection of magazines found on our shelves.

TOURNAMENT BEING PLAYED

HANDBALL RISES AND MANY ENTER LISTS

Well, the work has brought its results. A call for men with tough hands was issued and if you noticed the list, there were about thirty who enlisted for the handball tournaments.

Now, it seems that there is some difficulty about rules, owing to the many and diversified conditions under which the respective players learned to play and the consequent variety of rules. Following are a few rules which are taken from the official rules of the A. U. of the U. S.:

21 points shall constitute a game. In serving, the ball must be bounced on the floor and struck on the first bounce. Missing the ball puts the server out. The server has the privilege of several attempts at bouncing the ball before serving.

The server must stand between the short line and the service line before commencing his service and must not step over the service line while serving.

Stepping over the service line while serving shall be counted as a short ball. Doing so twice in succession shall be counted a hand out.

Three short balls in succession shall count as a hand out.

Hitting the ceiling, floor or side walls before the front wall while serving counts as a hand out.

Catching or stopping the ball on the service before it hits the floor counts as a hand out.

It is optional with a player to accept a short ball: if a short ball be attempted it becomes a fair ball.

The server or his partner may stop a short ball after it touches the floor and before it has been touched by the opposing side.

While his partner is serving a player should stand between the lines with his back to the wall and while in this position it does not count as a hand out if he is struck by a served ball.

After the service the ball must be returned to the front wall before hitting the floor. Hitting the floor and front wall at the same time counts as a miss. The front wall must be hit first.

If a ball hits an adversary on the way to the front wall and afterwards reaches the front wall before touching the floor, it is in play. All balls striking players on the return are hinders or points.

If a ball, before it is dead, touches a player on the way back from the front wall, it loses the point for the player touched and the ball is immediately out of play.

Hitting a partner with the ball immediately puts the ball out of play and loses the point for that side except during the service when the partner is standing between the lines with his back to the wall. The man serving the ball in four-handed match is the man who is supposed to play inside the lines at all times.

Every player is entitled to a free and unobstructed opportunity to play the ball. If he is interfered with unintentionally it is called a hinder and is played over. If a player is prevented by an adversary from seeing the ball until too late to get in position, it is called a covered ball and shall be played over.

It is the duty of the side that has played the ball to keep out of the way of the side that is playing and under no circumstances shall a player be forced to run around an adversary in order to reach the ball. Hinders when claimed should generally be allowed unless clearly in the opinion of the referee there was no hinder.

A player may not claim a hinder or covered ball when interfered with by his partner.

Hinder—A returning ball that strikes an opposing player.

A Worthy Organization

The organization of the Freshmen and Sophomores into a body for the furtherance of school spirit and the perpetuating of traditions is a fine thing. It is a good step with the best foot forward. Let us get behind the underclassmen and help make this new organization, whatever they choose to call it, some thing with which we can point to with pride.

We are behind it to the last ditch, but let us build this organization so that it will never need go the last ditch but construct it so that the front line can never be pierced.

THE SCHOLARLY ATTITUDE

Some time in our lives all of us have been coasting, gliding along over the snow and ice at a breakneck speed when all of a sudden something happened to check our speed and we found ourselves piled up somewhere at the bottom of the hill.

That is exactly what happens to the student who lets his or her work slide and glide along thruout the year and then possibly two or three weeks before the close of the semester tries to overbt the impending disaster. This kind of a tudent usually piles up somewhere in a junk heap.

So let us remember while we are letting things slip and are gliding along so gayly on the path of the least resistance that if we do not come too with a sudden jar with more or less permanent injurious affects, we still will have the icy trail to climb back to the level from which we started.

So let us maintain the scholarly attitude as much as possible in our class room and study work and make good use of the opportunities that we have for these things.

This may seem like hitching your wagon to a star, but if you hotch a good program of study for yourself up to a lot of will power you will be infinitely better off. Most people that hitch their wagons to the stars loose track of the stars when it comes daylight and either get bumped off or else go around all the time in sort of a day dream trying to hook on to that star again and never get any farther.

XMAS SHOPPING CAMPAIGN

The merchants of McMinnville have united in their third Annual Christmas shopping campaign which started Dec. fifth and will continue until Dec-seventeenth.

In former years this has been very successful and this year it promises to be a great thing for the early Christmas buyer.

Students let us support the merchants who so loyally support us in this campaign of theirs. You will have more or less Christmas shopping to do. Do it now and take advantage of these bargains offered. The way Christmas vacation is arranged this year you will have but little time to do your buying after you go home. So do it here and take your time and choose your gifts carefully and we guarantee that you will be better satisfied.

Then, too, you will be showing the merchants that you do appreciate what they do to make this paper possible.

WHY NOT HERE

In California and in other places the colleges exchange courtesies by sending the president of the associated students of one school to address the student body of the other school and then in return the other school sends their president to the former school.

This arrangement tends to draw the colleges closer together and to make a better spirit of friendliness and understanding between the students of different schools.

We think that this would be a good thing here in the Willamette valley and would help to keep the schools out of the rut of provincialism that they are all so liable to get into.

Instead of looking in on ourselves all of the time we would change our point of view in this way and be looking out on the other fellow some of the time.

The McMinnvillian

The McMinnville high school has just put out the first issue of The McMinnvillian which is to be published every two weeks. It is a creditable paper for a high school publication.

The Review wishes the high school success in its new endeavor.

PROFESSORS BRING SOMETHING WORTH WHILE

The three Professors, who led chapel last week, brought to the students some thoughts well worth remembering. Prof. Shumaker, speaking last Monday, brought out some fine things along the lines of fellowship.

Prof. Schlauch in his seech gave some very interesting facts about the Philippine Islands and the people there and of their efforts for independence.

From a magazine article on Success, Professor Gardiner brought a real message to the man or woman who is willing to work and sacrifice that he or she might obtain the most worth while things.

STUDY AND STRIVE

"At the age of ten we wonder," says Rev. James L. Gordan, "at twenty we imagine, at thirty we cogitate, at forty we think, at fifty we have 'an idea or two,' at sixty we have two ideas and at seventy we are working on one idea."

Let us be original thinkers. The only difference between a stupid student and the one who is original is in the vital fact that the one thinks and the other does not. Let us think our way through such "hold-backs" as precedent, prejudice, custom, convention, fashion, style, and all the other forms of folly and get at the heart of things.

We hear so much about "snapping out of it." Why not snap into it? Let us think our way in and we will have little difficulty in thinking the way out. Let us apply ourselves, our mental x-rays if you please, to every unanswered question and every unsolved problem.

Are you identified with some great, unpopular cause? Courage is the finest character. If you think you are right have your say. Be downright, upright and outright. Stand fast, stand firm, stand erect, stand alone. Stand with your back towards the past and with your face toward the unfolding of God's plan and purpose for humanity. Stand, and having done all, stand. First they will swear at you, then they will swear by you. Dare to differ. Dare to discuss. Dare to dispute. Dare to deny. Dare to defy. Be indifferent to the indifference of indifferent men. Remember the brave words of William Lloyd Garrison: "I will not excuse, I will not equivocate, I will not retreat an inch, I will be heard." To be first in advocating a noble cause is to be lonely, but to be thus lonely is to be lofty.

It is better to stand alone than creep and crawl with the crowd. Better stand alone for the great cause than moping, move with the multitude. As a rule men laugh and women weep at a wedding. The fact that they are not principals in the affair probably has something to do with it. Husbands and wives should never lead a cat and dog life. The odds are nine to one in favor of the cat. "He either fears his fate too much or he deserves to fall. Who dares not put it to the test To win or lose it all."

Work is the lot of man. Even Adam didn't walk around in the garden of Eden with his hands in his pockets.

One Wild Night

"Hello! I want to order a box for th party!"
"What size?"
"There'll be six of us in the party."
"But they only come in single sizes—we'll have to have it made special!"

"No, this is the undertaker!"

Social Activities

Edited by ALICE OLIVER

Kappa Alpha Phi

The Kappa Alpha Phi sorority met at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Tilbury for its annual pledge dinner. After a bounteous meal, the girls gathered around a roaring fireplace and sang sorority and other songs.

Kappa Alpha Phi announces the following as pledges to the sorority: Bertha Jonasson, Ruth Riley, Alma Carstens, Eva Cummins, Evelyn Hayton, and Emily Craig.

Zeta Chi

The Zeta Chi girls entertained their pledges at the home of Mrs. M. W. Haynes. After a bounteous supper had been partaken of, several musical selections were given by Miss Flora Maloney. The rest of the evening was spent in welcoming the new members and having a general good time. The new pledges are: Edith Page, Edene Moore, Emma Maloney, Wilhelmina Fullerton, Wilma O'Keefe, Lillian Bueermann, and Erma Green.

Lambda Lambda Sigma

The Lambda Lambda Sigma girls held a meeting on Friday evening at the McSherry home. The evening was spent in playing games and singing frat songs. The sorority is glad to welcome into its circle as pledges: Helen Blom, Dorothea Baldwin, Lois Smith, Alice Dow, and Lona Cole.

Nesika

Last Friday evening a large crowd of Nesika girls gathered together at the Schlauch home. A very peppy business meeting was held, and then all enjoyed magic games. Best of all, they were served with some delicious chocolate pie, such as only Mrs. Schlauch knows how to make.

SAMUEL NEIL IN CHAPEL

Samuel Neil, the general secretary of the American Baptist Publication society, addressed the student body yesterday at the chapel hour.

It is seldom that one who comes to give a chapel address, is a singer, a story teller and a public speaker. Mr. Neil is all of these.

He sang two of Harry Lauders songs before giving his speech. His address was on the building of character and was a wonderful talk. He used his story telling ability to a great advantage thruout and never failed to put across the point that the story illustrated.

Mr. Neil dined at the college club and entertained the students with songs and stories during the noon hour.

WHAT IS IT?

Many inquiries are being heard on every side as to the origin, nature, purpose and general character of the new organization that is being formed among the men of the Frosh and Soph classes. As this organization will directly effect every member of the Student Body and even the school itself, it is well that every one connected with the school should have a clear understanding of the nature and purpose of the organization.

President Rich brot the idea home with him from the conference of Student Body officers at Seattle, and has been instrumental in getting working plans adopted. It is an acknowledged fact that the work of similar organizations in other colleges and universities has been of great value.

The membership of the body is entirely from the men of the Frosh and Soph classes, with the President of the A. S. M. as an ex-officio member. Members are elected by the classes, in order that there will be no possibility of its becoming a club.

The duties of the organization are varied. To cite some examples, it will be the duty of this organization to meet and welcome incoming representatives of other Student Bodies, such as athletic teams, debate teams, etc. To provide escort for our own teams as they leave for other schools and as they return. To provide ushers and guards at games held here. To do anything possible to promote school spirit of the best type and general good conditions upon the campus. As this is an organization of the Student Body, and entirely for the Student Body, for the improvement of school spirit and conduct, we ask your heartiest support in every way possible and we assure you that we are at the service of the school and Student Body

I. O. M.

The Iota Omega Mu fraternity is proud to announce as its new members: Floyd Miller, John Dulin, Reese Doak, Alvin Rhodes and Gordon Leger all of whom were present with the fraternity Friday evening at the home of Bernard Hansard.

Loda Davis received a letter from Miss Corbett, who was last year instructor of piano here. She says that she has been just recently put on the state board of musical directors for the coming year.

Miss Jessie Young has just returned from a Y. W. C. A. conference in Seattle. She will have a full report in next week's Review.

PHI EPSILONS MEET AT CAMPBELL HOME

At 7:30 last Friday evening the old members of the Phi Epsilon fraternity met at the home of Dave Campbell. A half an hour of business was disposed with while waiting for the arrival of the pledge members, who were due at eight o'clock.

Upon their arrival each was warmly welcomed and a spirit of cordiality and brotherly fellowship prevailed the whole meeting. Each member, including all, responded to the roll call on the topic "My Favorite Flower." As Walter Gowen was unable to be present on account of illness, he was called on the phone and given the greetings of the frat. The "inimitable" Jesse Manley gave an "excellent reading in his characteristic manner. Weston Henry talked on fraternity spirit and ideals and Halsey Carstens played several piano numbers. The Epistates, Harvey Locke, also told of the purposes of the frat and emphasized the value of unity and mutual helpfulness. Doughnuts, cider, and a big warm fire in the fireplace topped the evening off.

at any and all times. In the meantime "Watch us go." R. I. M.

PRESIDENT RILEY BACK

President Leonard W. Riley returned from the east Tuesday morning. More about his trip and his work while gone will be in next week's issue.

AT DOUD HOME

The Alpha Gamma Nu fraternity met with Ralph Doud last Saturday evening. The new pledge members were present for the social part of the evening.

The new pledges of the fraternity are Arthur Wilson, Bern Wright, Ray Geise, Ernest Losli, and Hans Erickson.

THE COLLEGES AS PATRONS

"Miami University (Oxford, Ohio) has done a new and stimulating thing. It has endowed a poet, essayist, and dramatist (Mr. Percy MacKaye) as Fellow in Dramatic Literature, with a professor's salary, a house, and a studio, with no assigned duties except to work at his art, and with all opportunity for association with faculty and students. The objects held in view by the university are two. One is the advancement of literary art. The other is 'to leaven the increasing materialism of the American university' by the presence of one whose work is the embodying of the ideal.

"Anything which will free men of high endowments...to do their best work deserves the praise of all. But what primarily concerns the colleges is the effect on them. It is good that those watch towers of humanity should extend their horizons. University men near great centers have the chance to keep in touch with the large actualities both in life and in art. This is more difficult for institutions in the country, where life tends toward dead routine and talk toward the local as much as it does in small communities not blessed with a watch tower.

"As to the students, the men in general admire visible success and pursue studies which they have heard lead toward it. The typical man of enterprise and physical vigor goes in for engineering, law, economics, or chemistry. He hardly thinks, unforced, of a study not visibly related to his life work. But daily...association with a magnetic personality...who may be giving expression in the forms of the past to what people today are thinking and feeling can hardly fail to make the literature of the past seem more significant and vital. Even the rough-neck Pharisee who passes by on the other side of the hall may admit that reputation and influence without wealth mean success."—School and Society.

Western College (also in Oxford, Ohio), with similar intent, has appointed Mr. Edgar Stillman Kelley to a fellowship in music, carrying like privileges. It is hoped that these appointments will arouse interest among the colleges in an extended system of fellowships in creative art. The principle involved is that American colleges and universities should do for poets, painters, sculptors, and artists what patrons did in earlier centuries and what has not infrequently been done for men with creative gifts in the field of material achievement.

"If it (this plan) works, it will free a democratic country from one of the worst charges that can be brought against it—that its artists are doomed. If it fails, it will at least have shown that democracies breed institutions in which the value of the creative artist is recognized."—Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

CHAPEL BY CHOICE

The students at the University of Maine recently voted for the reestablishment of compulsory chapel attendance. Last autumn, when the enrollment at Arono outstripped the seating capacity of the chapel, the college administration suspended compulsory attendance, whereupon 15 or 20 students attended the morning service instead of 1200. But sensing the fact that a strong force for unity had thus been removed, the students petitioned for reestablishment of the old custom and now begin the day as of yore.

MANY ORATORS TO TRY

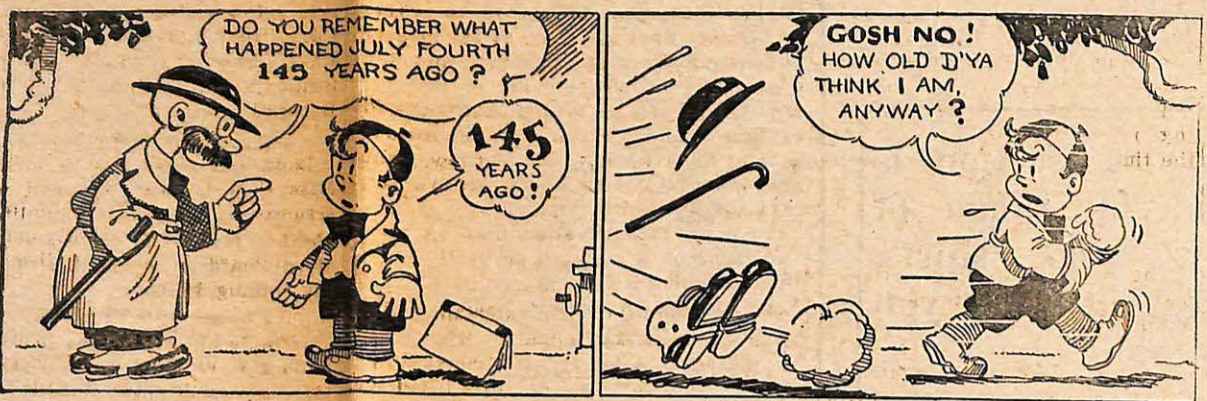

Oratory is on! With the generous support being shown the Demosthenian pastime by the students, the winter months promise some eventful and profitable times for all those interested in this classic diversion.

Numerous cash prizes have been donated for the various contests but the philosophy of those entering the lists seems to be for training and for Old Mac, as well as for the prizes. With this spirit among its adherents, Oratory promises this year to fill its sphere in college life and fill it well. Needless to say it is expected that the fortunate orators will find some way in which to use the money.

The Freshmen entering are: Harris Erickson, Savage, Whitening, Howe, Cachapero, Larkey, Wiseman, Stowe, Marsh.

Any other student desiring to go out for oratory should see the manager of forensics immediately. This week will close the chance of entering the class contests to be held in January.

Ben Larson will represent McMinnville College at the annual executive committee meeting of the Inter-collegiate Oratorical Association of Oregon to be held in the near future. The purpose of this conference is the selection of competent judges on delivery and that and composition for the state contest in March. The I. O. A. O. contest will be held in Newberg this year.

The Freshmen and Junior warriors of the yerbal fray will meet in deadly conflict next Tuesday evening in the chapel to settle the question of class supremacy in debate.

The question to be slaughtered is: Resolved, the Philippine Islands should not be given their independence at this time. Supporting the affirmative will be Oscar Gladish and Sylvester Cross; the negative, Al Hillier and Harris Erickson. The faculty committee will act as judges. The coming debate promises to be the best platform scrap of the year.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB ORGANIZED AT O. A. C.

Representatives from 17 nations compose the Cosmopolitan club at O. A. C. This club is a chapter of the international organization, Cordes Frateres, the principal chapter of which is in Italy where the fraternity was organized. The object of the fraternity is to promote a friendly relationship between nations and is expressed in its slogan, "Above all nations—humanity." The additional purpose of the O. A. C. chapter is to help foreign students get acquainted with men from many countries and with American people and customs.

From Belgium

The following is part of a letter received from Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wakeman from Brussels where they were detained on their way to Africa. The letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Doud.

"Our departure from this place is near at hand, our ship leaving November 12 or 15. Yesterday we bought some tropical goods and ordered our suits of white and khaki.

We do not know where we will be stationed as yet. There are several places that need us badly, as our field is poorly manned at present. Several of our missionaries are in the states now and unable to return on account of their health. Perhaps we shall be sent to Sona Beta, where the Moodys are, or to Tchimbira which has only a man and wife. I believe that we shall have more recruits from now on as Dr. Lerrigo is working earnestly on this difficulty and we are praying the Lord will send us others.

By Colonel Frederick Palmer

Colonel Frederick Palmer, the Dean of American War Correspondents, has been through every war of importance from the Greco-Turkish war of 1897 down to date. 1914-16 he was the accredited American correspondent with the British army; 1917-18 Lt. Colonel A. E. F. Author, "America in France," "The Last Shot," "The Folly of Nations" (1921), etc.

Washington, November 25th. The third plenary session has been held this week, and the committees are at grips with their work. At a plenary session all the delegates make a public appearance. Then you may see the chiefs "up stage" and back of them their numerous subordinates, and back of these the representatives of the world's press and all other persons who have sufficient influence to secure tickets of admission. Then you may listen to the clear tones of Mr. Hughes, as chairman, to the well turned phrases of Mr. Balfour, or the gusty enunciation in Japanese of Baron Kato, while you watch the immobile face of Mr. Root, or Senator Lodge as he thoughtfully presses his fingers together, or General Pershing, sitting so firm and erect.

At the first plenary session Mr. Hughes said to the world: America is ready to cut down her navy, here is her programme. Hitherto, when nations talked about limitation of armament the question was "Who will begin first?" and no nation held up its hand as a volunteer. Mr. Hughes proposed that the three great sea powers start naval reduction at the same time. What would the other two sea powers say to this? At the second session they accepted in principle. Then committees were appointed to work out the details.

The third plenary session was held in order that Premier Briand of France might state the situation of France. One may be held, if Premier Lloyd George comes to America, to allow him to be as eloquent about his country as M. Briand was about his. This would be only fair play and an equivalent theatrical courtesy.

We shall have a plenary session, too, when the committees have worked out details far enough to make a public announcement of progress. For all that is said at the plenary session is given to the world. The committees do the real work, and this behind closed doors, when, perhaps, it would be better if the doors were kept open. But the world is leaving this to the choice of the committees for the time being as they think that they can accomplish more in secret sessions. Their task is enormous. They are attempting a feat which is without precedent in the war-worn history of the human race. Each nation, thinking in the terms of its own security, must study every angle of the proposals. The details of naval reduction are as complicated as the mechanism of a modern battleship; the details of the far eastern problem are as complicated as all the ills that old China is heir to related to all the national interests that have sought aggrandizement at her expense.

Meanwhile, as the committees labor, we shall hear rumors and conjectures founded on guesswork as to what is going on in the secret sessions. All men and women should unite to discourage ill feeling between nations which will lead to dissension at the council boards.

Failure of the conference means that the world will return to tooth and claw and have to bear a heavier burden of taxation than ever before. Success will mean that we have taken a first definite step toward bringing permanent peace to the world. Every minute that one spends on informing himself on this problem of peace and war, every thought that is brought to bear to help Mr. Hughes and the other delegates will be an aid to success.

Conquest Class

The lesson Sunday dealt with the letter to Philemon in which Paul manifested great wisdom and tact. Prof. Gardiner emphasized the fact that great results come from seemingly small things. We find that the demands made upon love are great, yet he who lives, gives. Christ's love was the most wonderful thing ever known, yet he made the greatest sacrifice because of it. The crown of life is self sacrifice, and no sacrifice is made, without love.

Prof. Gardiner is presenting the lessons in a very helpful way, and those who do not attend Conquest Class are missing a very vital part of their college and Christian life.

The Student Volunteers met at nine o'clock Sunday morning at the church. The meeting was led by Mark Rich. He showed how many different ways that a person can invest his life in Foreign service. The discussion centered particularly around the need of Agricultural missions.

The members are especially urged not to forget the Thursday meeting at 12:50 in Prof. Jewell's room.

Oregon Agricultural College, P. I. P. A. November 5.—The O. A. C. Student Loan Fund will be increased by half the proceeds of the play "My Lady's Ring," to be read by Miss Katherine Jewell Evarts. The other half of the money will be given to the scholarship loan fund of the Oregon Federated Women's clubs. The college folk club is sponsoring the reading of the play.

TO HAVE DAILY

A daily barometer will be discussed by the O. A. C. student body at its meeting tomorrow. Changing from a twice weekly to a daily paper would necessitate a larger student fee. The final decision will rest with the board of regents.

O. A. C. WINS

For the second time an O. A. C. stock judging team has won the Columbia Basin Wool warehouse trophies at the Pacific International livestock show as first prize in the sheep classes. The set consists of one large loving cup, 24 inches high, and five one-fourth size replica of the large cup which go to the five members of the judging team.

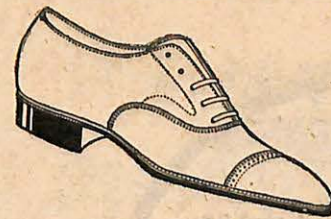

If an Aggie team wins the contest again next year, the trophy will become the permanent property of the college.

TWO NIGHTS IN A BALL ROOM
Preachers, Laymen, Businessmen Enjoy Nights at Gymnasium

Of late there have been appearing on the basketball floor of our new gymnasium, from eight to a dozen business men, two nights a week. These men, who labor faithfully in their pulpits, stores and offices, during the day, come to enjoy a few hours of diversion, exercise and fun, to forget the cares of the day and "be a boy again." At the present they come on Monday and Friday evenings from 5:30 to 7 and enjoy full privileges of the gymnasium. It is hoped that a larger number will avail themselves of this opportunity as time goes on, for they will probably work up a basketball team which will give our boys some practice "and games make a team."

THE COLLEGIAN'S CREED

If you speak to everyone on the campus, you're a policy shooter; if you don't, you're a fathead. If you step out, you're a tea snake; if you don't, you're a bum sport. If you study, you're a bookworm; if you don't, you're a purposeless amoeba. If you dress well, you're a fairy; if you don't, you're a farmer. If you go in for activities, you're a politician; if you don't, you're a carpet-bagger. If you step co-eds, you're a sap; if you don't, you're a woman hater. If you're friendly with the pros, you're a hand-shaker; if you are not, you're a proof. Moral—There isn't any.
