Conclusions

Liberian President Ellen Johnson Sirleaf and German Chancellor Angela Merkel are examples that it is possible to overcome fear, gender stereotypes, bias, and so many other negatives. They both rose to political leadership via having been attributed to their personal backgrounds, their leadership styles, and their activism in democratic and/or liberation movements prior to achieving their country’s highest political offices.

Works Cited

